FRONT LINE AND GREEK SCHOLAR PLACED.

BLUE DUN DISAPPOINTS.

As a drawing card the Cesarewitch always held a foremost place among the season's handicaps; and the weather maintaining the high character which it had earned earlier in the week, the natural result was an enormous attendance, the like of which has never been seen at Newmarket.

Apart from the principal event, the card was an interesting one, as we were promised a view of the flying Tetratema, who had only Britomart to tackle, and disposed of that colt with his ears pricked. Another interesting affair was the Select Stakes, which probably showed us the winner of the Cambridgeshire, so decisive was the manner in which Square Measure gave the weight away. The three very useful three-year-olds who turned out against him, and who included the smart Southern, who had an advantage of 18lb., were of no use to Mr. Reid Walker's great miler. Romana, the winner of the Cheveley Park Stakes, will assuredly be heard of again.

The success of Bracket in the Cesarewitch will take an enormous sum out of the ring, and, as the filly has been coupled with several of the leading Cambridgeshire favourites in "doubles," the public will be big gainers over the two races. The race was run at a tremendous pace, thanks to the firm going and a favourable breeze, and several of the competitors were in a hopeless plight before two-thirds of the journey was completed. Brance, One, Cavalier, Bracket, Greek Scholar, and Greenmount were the leaders at a mile, Warwick and Confessor at that point being tailed off, and it was not until the Bushes were reached that Front Line, Golden Guinea, and Holbeach began to loom largely in the picture. The last-named fell lame hereabouts, and Spearwort drew closer, but coming down the Bushes hill Front Line and Bracket disposed of their field, and Bracket, running on stoutly to the end, scored a decisive victory in time which constitutes a record for the course. Greek Scholar and Golden Guinea were going great guns at the end, but the winner was too speedy and her victory was well earned. Loud cheering greeted the hoisting of her number. Warwick, St. Eloi, Holbeach, and Confessor appeared to be very groggy at the finish. The surprise of the race was the indifferent display given by Blue Dun, who signally failed to run up to the expectations of her connections, who must be heavy losers over her. Details:—

Mr. Williams declared to win with Holbeach.

(Winner trained by R. Day.)

Betting—11 to 2 agst. Blue Dun, 6 to 1 Holbeach, 8 to 1 BRACKET, 10 to 1 each Spearwort and Golden Guinea, 100 to 9 Front Line, 25 to 1 Greek Scholar, 28 to 1 Cavalier, 33 to 1 each African Star and Celandine, 40 to 1 each Golden Melody, Phantom Bold, Brance, Finchale, and Kaboodles, 50 to 1 each Furore, Aris, Harrier, Miss Madcap, and Old Bill, 66 to 1 Jappool, 100 to 1 any other.

Place betting proportionate.

One settled down in front of Cavalier, Brance, Finchale, Front Line, Bracket, Greek Scholar, Blue Dun, Celandine, Holbeach, and African Star, with Warwick last. After going a mile and a quarter, One was still in front, followed by Cavalier, Brance, Greenmount, Holbeach, Phantom Bold, Manrico, Front Line, Miss Madcap, Greek Scholar, and Sheriff's Officer, with Celandine and Matoppo in the rear, except Warwick and Confessor, who were tailed off. Soon afterwards Golden Guinea and Greek Scholar moved up, and reaching the rails Brance had taken the lead, pursued by Bracket, Greek Scholar, Front Line, Golden Guinea, and Finchale. At the Bushes, Front Line became third. In the Abingdon Bottom Brance was beaten, and Bracket took command, followed by Front Line. The latter, however, failed to get on terms, and Bracket won by two lengths; three lengths divided second and third. Brance was fourth, Golden Guinea fifth, Celandine sixth, Spearwort seventh, Old Bill eighth, Jappool ninth, Cavalier tenth; Holbeach (who pulled up apparently lame) eleventh, Phantom Bold twelfth, Golden Melody next, and Miss Madcap last. CHANTICLEER'S NOTES.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

NEWMARKET, WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

The result of a sensational Cesarewitch leaves one "not a bit forrader," as the saying is, regarding the Cambridgeshire, but I shall be very greatly surprised if a later race fails to disclose the prospective recipient of the big prize of the Houghton week in Square Measure. The race to-day furnished quite a chapter of accidents, St. Eloi and Warwick breaking down, whilst Holbeach and Spearwort pulled up lame. Another interesting card awaits dissection to-morrow, when some of the horses mentioned below should win:—

Bretby Stakes—Pompadour.
Selling Plate—Saintly Sinner or Britomart.
Suffolk Nursery—Cœur de Lion.
Lowther Stakes—Pomme de Terre.
Prendergast Stakes—Trash.
Heath Plate—Cylgar.
Challenge Stakes—Tetratema; if absent, Plymouth Rock.

LIMERICK JUNCTION RACE COMPANY.

A Successful Year.

The report of the directors of the Limerick Junction Race Company, Ltd., for the year ended June 30th last shows that on an issued capital of £19,992 there was earned a gross profit of £5,022, of which £2,585 12/7 was net profit. Adding to that sum £762 4/5 brought in from the last account there is available for distribution £3,347 17/- out of which the directors propose to apply £1,597 18/6 to the payment of a dividend of 8 per cent., free of tax, as against 5 per cent., free of tax, for the previous year, to place to repairs and renewals fund £500, to pay directors' fees £200, and to carry forward £1,049 18/6. The directors congratulate their manager, Mr. T. J. Fleming, on his successful working of the property, and they point out that the profits have been well maintained, notwithstanding the absence of railway facilities from many parts of Ireland to the racecourse.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Flower Bed was struck out of the Cambridgeshire after 5 p.m. on Tuesday.

The time occupied by Bracket in the Cesarewitch yesterday was 3 mins. 46 3-5 secs., which constitutes a record for the race.

The skeleton of Eclipse, the most famous racehorse in history, is about to be exhibited in the Natural History Museum at South Kensington. It is being lent by the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons.

COLIEMORE GALA.

The above gala, held on the 4th September, was an unqualified success, and Dr. Alfred E. Boyd, Secretary of the Richmond Stall, Dublin Associated Hospitals Fund, begs to acknowledge receipt of cheque for £131 7/10, and to express sincere thanks, on behalf of the Fund, to the Gala Committee.—(Advt.)

NEWMARKET BLOODSTOCK SALES.

Some Good Prices.

An interesting catalogue was prepared by Messrs. Tattersall for yesterday's auction of bloodstock at Newmarket, and a very large company was attracted to the Park Paddock. Heavy reserves failed to assist the dispersal of Mr. W. Parrish's contingent of horses in training, none of them changing hands. Scorpius, it transpired, was slightly injured on his way back to the town last evening, and the reserve of 5,000 guineas not being tendered, he, too, was passed out. Three of Mr. M. Fitzgerald's horses in training averaged 920 guineas. Yesterday's aggregate reached 17,765 guineas. Appended is a list of the sales:—

SWIMMING.

220 YARDS CHAMPIONSHIP OF IRELAND.—This event, fixed for the University College S.C. gala, at the Municipal Baths, Cork, on Saturday next, has been postponed owing to the Baths having been closed in consequence of an outbreak of typhoid in the Southern capital. It is probable the race will now be swum under the auspices of the Leinster Branch, I.A.S.A., in Dublin.

A Reuter's telegram, dated Brisbane, Wednesday, states:—The first match of the British rifle team which is touring Australia took place here to-day against a team representing Queensland. The aggregate of the British team was 1,173, or an average of 97.95, while the Queensland aggregate was 1,114. The visitors were thus winners, and Colonel Richardson, O.B.E., Commandant, expressed himself well satisfied with the shooting of his team.

CORK, Wednesday Night.

The Cork City Club, which, since its inception, a few years ago, has done so much to popularise the sport in the South, had an experience to-day that does not often fall to the lot of a club of such standing in Irish coursing. Difficulties that at one time seemed insurmountable were overcome by the officials, and the prospects for the opening of the season could not have been brighter; but during last night a large proportion of the hares made their escape from the Hare Park, and this circumstance led to an abandonment of the meeting after the card had been run down once, a decision which, needless to say, the club arrived at with the greatest reluctance. Although a number of hares sufficient to get through the card a second time remained, it was deemed advisable not to bring the half-holiday crowd and owners out to Lakelands for such a curtailed programme to-morrow, and, certainly the wiser course was adopted. With all four stakes resulting in long divisions, comment on the running is quite needless.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—The anti-cyclone over Iceland and the depression off S.W. Ireland maintain their positions with little change, but there are indications that another depression of considerable energy is approaching the Azores. The wind will probably continue mainly between S.E. and S. for the present. A good deal of mist or fog will prevail in the S. and E. districts. In the West showers are probable.

Ireland.—Wind mainly S.E. or S., moderate or fresh, strong locally; variable sky; some rain or showers; visibility fair; temperature moderate.

Education and Unity.

The issue of self-government in Ireland has been reduced to a question of one Parliament or two Parliaments—the question of partition. The Chief Secretary declared yesterday, in Belfast, that the Government was resolved to persist with the present Home Rule Bill. Nationalist Ireland will declare once more its refusal to accept partition, and so the familiar crux survives. It survives mainly because Southern Ireland has made no real effort to appreciate or to remove the cause of North-East Ulster's demand for a separate Parliament. The cause is the distrust and suspicion which spring inevitably from the division of the Irish people into religious camps. We hope that Southern Nationalists and Northern Unionists will study with equal care the address which the Bishop of Cashel delivered yesterday to the Diocesan Synod at Waterford. It is worth a hundred political speeches of the ordinary kind, for it goes boldly to the very root of all our national troubles and suggests a practical remedy. The two-Parliament idea is the logical outcome of the two-school system, and when the system goes the idea will wither quickly for lack of nourishment. Dr. Miller's address is a powerful plea for the abandonment of denominational teaching in the primary schools. There can be no secure peace in Ireland, he argues, "until Irishmen break down the cast-iron barriers of denominationalism and consent to be educated together." He invites the Churches to surrender, not their spiritual influence, but their material control of education, in the interests of national unity. His proposals involve the removal of all present managers, clerical and lay. The change would be simple enough, if the initial agreement could be obtained. The huge number of small denominational schools would disappear and would be replaced by central schools throughout the country on the principle of the model schools. These would be controlled by the inspectors of the National Board, and teachers would be appointed in proportion to the numbers of the various denominations on the rolls. All clergymen would have the right of entry at stated hours for purposes of religious instruction. There would be no taint of "secularisation" in such a scheme, for it would not interfere with the spiritual authority of any Church; and, if the denominational training colleges were retained, the teachers' liberty of conscience would remain absolutely unimpaired. Dr. Miller is confident that his plan would put an end to sectarian strife in five years, and that only thus can a true Irish Commonwealth be created. "If all ecclesiastics should agree to stand out of the immediate control of secular education, the Northman would have the only evidence which will be satisfactory to him that he is to be left free to worship God uncontrolled."

We invite a dispassionate hearing for Dr. Miller's plea. One-half of his clerical life was spent in the North, and when he says that the fall of denominational barriers would remove most of North-East Ulster's objections to national unity no Irishman need hesitate to accept his testimony. Indeed, Ireland is more than half-converted already to his proposals for reform. If North-East Ulster gets her Parliament under the present Bill, one of its first acts will be the establishment of a six-county system of undenominational teaching in the primary schools. If we could conceive the acceptance of the present Bill by Southern Ireland—but we cannot conceive it—we should be quite confident that the Southern Parliament soon would follow the Northern example. The political methods of Sinn Fein are calamitous, but its ideals in education are well abreast of the times. Probably all thinking Sinn Feiners throughout the country agree with Dr. Miller that denominational barriers are a national curse, and probably they have every intention to attack those barriers if, and when, they become a force in a Dublin Parliament. We are quite ready to believe, therefore, that, if the present Home Rule Bill were accepted by all parties in Ireland, the dealings of the two Parliaments with educational problems not only would be no obstacle to ultimate unity, but rather might be a means of promoting it. For a hundred reasons the present Bill is hopeless as a basis of settlement; but the fact should not discourage Irishmen of good-will from giving to Dr. Miller's plea the earnest attention which it deserves. By his path, if by any path, we shall find, sooner or later, the solution of the Irish problem. We shall have no genuine unity, under any form of government, so long as the wall of sectarian distrust and prejudice towers grimly between North and South. The time of waiting for a true settlement could not be employed better than in efforts of reconciliation, and the time will be short if the efforts are general and sincere. It is certain that the denominational system in Irish education will not survive the establishment of self-government either in North or South. Nothing is to be lost, therefore, and very much is to be gained, by a frank and immediate recognition of the fact. Will the Churches—all the Churches—lead the way?

The Miners' Ballot.

The ballot among the coal-miners of Great Britain has been concluded. The final figures are not yet available, but from those which have been published already it is quite certain that the coal-owners' offer has been rejected by a huge majority. In South Wales alone it is estimated that the majority against acceptance will amount to over 123,000, and in the Dean Forest district only five per cent. of the miners have voted in favour of the datum line. Throughout the country similar results have been obtained, and when the Federation delegates' meeting takes place to-day Mr. Smillie and his Executive will be faced with a very serious crisis. The rejection of the datum proposals is not surprising, and the fact that the miners have voted against them does not mean necessarily that they have voted in favour of a strike. The issue was not very clear. The datum scheme proposed that the miners' wages should depend on results—that their weekly pay should rise or fall in sympathy with the output of coal at the pits' mouth. The standard was to have been the output for the whole Kingdom. Here at once we find a grave objection. The wages of the men in any particular mine would depend not only on their own exertions, but on the exertions of the men in every other mine in the Kingdom. Thus, while the colliers in Lanarkshire, for instance, might work like niggers to increase their output, those in South Wales or Yorkshire might go on strike for a week or so, and nullify the Scotsmen's efforts. The coal industry employs a very large number of men, of whom only about one-third are actual colliers—that is to say, hewers of coal. The others are engaged in all sorts of capacities beneath and above the surface, but have virtually no part in the increase of output. No matter how hard two-thirds of the miners work, therefore, the output depends on the labours of the other third. Can we wonder, in these circumstances, that the great majority of the men has no faith in the datum scheme? They all want, naturally enough, to make sure of their money.

To-day the Miners' Federation will decide what steps it shall take as a result of the ballot. It has no mandate for a strike. The men have said that they do not want the datum line, but they have not said that they want to stop work on Saturday, when the strike notices expire. The Government's offer to refer the whole matter to an impartial tribunal for arbitration has not yet been placed before the men, and until that is rejected, too, there should be no talk of a strike. The delay which the recent ballot created has strengthened the position of the Government and of the public, and the chances of success now in the event of a coal strike would be much less than they would have been some weeks ago. Trade unionists in every part of Great Britain have shown that they have little or no sympathy with the extremists' desire for a stoppage of work, and there now seems to be very little danger of a general strike, whatever the miners may decide to do. The spectre of unemployment has begun to stalk through industrial England. Many important industries are experiencing a heavy slump in trade, and everything points to a very hard winter for the working classes. Money is tight everywhere, and is becoming tighter. A coal strike would put the working classes in a desperate plight. Therefore, we do not believe that any but the most irreconcilable members of the Miners' Federation will try to bring their men out on Saturday. Sir Robert Horne has returned to London in order that the Executive may confer with him if necessary, and it is very likely that one of the results of to-day's meeting will be the resumption of negotiations at the Board of Trade. The best way out of the difficulty is the impartial tribunal: The miners claim to have a good case; therefore, they need not fear arbitration. The Government has declared its willingness to abide by the decision of the court, and nothing but the obstinacy of the extremists stands in the way of peace. Mr. Smillie, like Saul, has taken his stand among the prophets, and will use all his influence to prevent a strike. He will have the support of all sensible men, and, if his efforts on the side of moderation and common-sense be successful, will earn the thanks of every worker in the country. This will be an eventful day in the history of British industry. Let us hope that the counsels of wisdom may prevail.

The Seamen's Strike.

The strike of seamen and firemen at the Port of Dublin came to an end yesterday. Ireland has so many difficulties to contend with just now that the strike made many people despair. Some five hundred or six hundred miles of railways have been closed, there is a prospect that the Government may take further drastic action in the same direction, and the suspension of the postal service may be enforced at any moment. In these circumstances the closing of the Port of Dublin—for that is what the strike achieved—represented the last straw. If the dispute had continued for a few days longer, it would have caused severe hardship throughout Dublin and the area which draws supplies from the city. As matters stand, the strike has been a costly affair, and the strikers themselves have been the chief sufferers. Their action was not approved by the Seamen's and Firemen's Union—indeed, it was a direct violation of an agreement entered into by that body—and, therefore, they did not receive strike pay. Their claim for higher wages has been submitted to an impartial tribunal, whose decision will be announced in due course.

Oil as Fuel.

Lloyd's annual report reveals the fact that our merchant shipping is undergoing a change that is almost as important as the evolution from sail to steam. Of the world's ships of a hundred tons and upwards 16.3 per cent. now use oil for raising steam and 1.7 are equipped with oil engines. During the last year four hundred and twenty-six new ships, totalling nearly two million tons, were fitted for burning oil fuel, and a large number of coal-burning steamers were converted to burn oil. The use of oil engines in large ships is also on the increase. These developments are bound to have an important influence on freights. The use of oil as a fuel increases a ship's cargo space, reduces the time necessary for a "turn round," and effects economy in labour. These factors, combined with keen competition, should ensure that rates will be kept at a fair economic level. The British Empire is rich in oil deposits, and care must be taken that foreign capitalists do not obtain the controlling interest. The prosperity of the United Kingdom depends very largely upon our position as "the world's carriers," and without adequate supplies of Empire-produced oil that position never can be made secure.

The Press Association Special Correspondent in Dublin, on enquiry at the Viceregal Lodge, was officially informed that there was no truth in the statement that Lord French is about to resign.

OBITUARY.

COLONEL H. S. MASSY, C.B.

The death of Colonel H. S. Massy, C.B., of Grantstown Hall, Tipperary, late Commanding 19th Bengal Lancers and General Staff, India, occurred at Sandgate, Kent, on October 10th. Colonel Massy had had distinguished war services, including the Afghan War, and the Yowaki, Burmese, Chin Lushai, Miranzai, N.W. Frontier, and Tirah Expeditions. He served as A.A.G., India, in 1904-6, and rejoined for the late war, serving under the War Office. He was mentioned in despatches many times. Colonel Massy was one of the first pioneers of aviation in Great Britain, being the founder in 1909 of the Aerial League of the British Empire, which did much to awaken public interest in military aviation.

THE HUNGER-STRIKERS.

The Lord Mayor of Cork was reported to be in an extremely weak and critical condition yesterday.

Our Cork Correspondent telegraphed last night:—It is learned that there is still no material change in the condition of the hunger-strikers in Cork Jail.

The Lord Mayor of Cork has forwarded, through Mrs. MacSwiney, the second instalment of £125, his quarter's salary, to the MacCurtain Memorial Fund.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON, WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

The King received the Prime Minister at Buckingham Palace last night, and, since it was the first opportunity they had had for a long and private conversation for a long period, there were, no doubt, many topics under discussion. The King's anxiety with regard to Ireland is well known, says "The Clubman" in the Pall Mall Gazette, and he heard it stated to-day that the Prime Minister went very freely into the situation with His Majesty.

The Government whip sent out to-day indicates that when the House of Commons meets at the usual hour on Tuesday next the Government of Ireland Bill will be taken in Committee. This carries out the intimation that the Bill would be one of the first to be dealt with after the recess. The whip is a two-lined one, showing that the Government desires as large an attendance of its supporters as possible. It is probable that the Prime Minister will himself be speaking during the day. This decision that the Government of Ireland Bill shall be the first business will do away with the demands of the "Wee Frees" and the Labour Party for a day to discuss the condition of Ireland.

Mr. Asquith's ideas with regard to Ireland are making a great stir among the members of his party, and there are many signs at its headquarters of a pronounced cleavage of opinion. The hostility expressed is so strong that the ex-Premier will have to take notice of it, for it cannot be ignored. From this point of view the speeches he is to make during the week-end are being awaited with some anxiety. His party managers think that he has made a grave mistake in suggesting that Ireland should be given powers to raise her own Navy and Army.

The future of the Prince of Wales with regard to Freemasonry is giving rise to some discussion in Masonic circles. The Duke of Connaught is the Grand Master of the Order, and will remain so as long as he desires. The suggestion, therefore, made to-day that the Prince may be invited to become Grand Master is scarcely likely to be correct. Pro-Grand Master would be another question, and it is a post that would fit the Prince admirably and delight the Masonic world. The Duke of Connaught has set his heart on the success of his proposal to raise one million pounds in order to set up a great Masonic centre in London in memory of the Masons who fell in the war, and until that scheme is well under way it is most unlikely that he or the Grand Lodge would desire a change.

The unveiling of the Cenotaph in Whitehall by the King on Armistice Day is to be as simple a ceremony as is consonant with the occasion. It is most unlikely that there will be any erection of stands or enclosures, and consequently very little space will be reserved for those present at the actual ceremonial. Complaints are being made that no accommodation is to be provided for the relatives of the dead, but this complaint is a little unreasonable, for the King himself, representing the whole Empire, will take the leading part in the ceremony.

The public, however, has a right to be taken into consideration on such an occasion, and the ceremony seems to afford an opportunity for a great procession to pass the Cenotaph after the unveiling. Such a procession might be formed up on the Embankment, and anybody who so desired might fall into its ranks. It might be made a most impressive demonstration of remembrance, and it would give the widow and the orphan an opportunity in common with everybody else. Sailors, soldiers, and societies of all kinds could be represented. The procession after passing the Cenotaph might pass through the Horse Guards into St. James's Park and disperse. Such a demonstration would satisfy most people.

The voting among the miners over the datum line is being watched with some anxiety at the miners' headquarters. It is now regarded as certain that the terms will be rejected, and, if so, the leaders are at their wit's end to know what alternative they can offer the men. Some of the extremists still clamour for a strike, but the majority are opposed, for they recognise that the public are utterly hostile to their methods, and in many cases would welcome such a step in order to end a situation that is disturbing trade and industry generally. Mr. Smillie, however, regards the situation calmly, and thinks it will be possible to avoid a strike by pursuing one or other of the proposals suggested at the recent conferences.

The trade union leaders will note with some perturbation that at the Cambridge Union Society the following resolution was passed by a large majority—234 to 134:—"That, in the opinion of this House, trade unionism has now become a menace to the best interests of this country." It is safe to say that before the war such a resolution would not have been proposed, much less carried, although the bulk of the undergraduates both at Oxford and Cambridge were much more conservative than they are to-day. But trade unionist leaders had not then put forward the claim that they, representing a section of the people, should dictate the policy of the whole country.

According to an article contributed by a Scottish correspondent to the Westminster Gazette, Bolshevism has made far more progress in Scotland than in England, and there are now revolutionary centres in most of the mining areas. But, while a good many of the Scottish miners have succumbed to its influence, there are a great many more who will have no truck with it. As one of them remarked to the correspondent, "Scotland has always managed to make her own politics and shape her own political destinies," and he scoffed at the notion that he and his friends were going to be dictated to by an Irishman like Gallagher, with his Moscow-made methods.

Many Dublin people will regret to learn of the death of Mr. Charles Alexander, the evangelist singer, who, with Dr. Torrey, conducted a series of revivalist missions some sixteen years ago. Even more than in the case of the Moody and Sankey missions a generation before, the success of the partnership was largely due to the singer. Mr. Alexander had not only a fine and well-trained voice, but wonderful personal magnetism as well, and the story is told of how, on one occasion at the Albert Hall, he induced Mrs. Asquith to sing a verse of the famous "Glory" song all by herself.

Although the Lord Chancellor was able to attend the reception of the judges and suffered no ill-effects from the exertion, it will be some time before he is able to resume his duties in the House of Lords. He and Lady Birkenhead are going abroad shortly, accompanied by a doctor who has a special knowledge of diseases of the ear. Fortunately, there is no lack of ex-Lord Chancellors to fill the vacant place on the Woolsack. Lord Halsbury, at 97, is, perhaps, a little too old, but Lords Loreburn, Haldane, Buckmaster and Finlay are all available and the last-named, as Lord Birkenhead's immediate predecessor, will probably be called upon.

IRELAND'S TRANSPORT PROBLEM.

ROAD VERSUS RAIL.

CO-OPERATIVE EFFORT.

(FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

There is no civilised country in the world to-day that lives, economically speaking, by taking in its own washing. Each sends commodities of one sort or another to its neighbours and receives other articles in exchange. The transport operation involved is fundamentally the same in nearly every case. From many sources of supply spread over a wide area small parcels of commodities are drawn to some central point of assembly and export, generally on tide water. To this point, conversely, imports are brought in bulk whence they are distributed through the same channels of transport to the numerous producing points. The port of export and import is the centre of a circle, on the circumference of which lie the many producers of exports and consumers of imports. A similar process goes on in regard to a country's internal trade. For the most part, the big cities like Dublin and Belfast or intensive industrial areas like the South Wales coal fields, lie at the centre of the circle, and the farms, villages, market towns, and small industrial communities on the circumference. But it is quite usual for a community to form the centre of one circle and at the same time to lie on the circumference of several others.

For fairly obvious reasons the commodities produced and received by a country, a community, or an individual, are approximately equal in value. Transport would be a comparatively simple problem if they were also equal in weight and bulk. But that is seldom the case. Coal is a notable instance of this discrepancy. The tonnage export of any coal-mining district is out of all proportion to its tonnage receipts. In these cases the question of returned empties becomes important, and may indeed be said to form ninety per cent. of the transport problem. The transport of empty receptacles is an absolutely unproductive expenditure of energy. In some cases the difficulty has been overcome—notably in the case of mineral oil which is piped instead of being carried by rail. The United States alone has some thousands of oil pipe-lines. In the case of coal the waste haulage also can be coped with to a certain extent by the transformation of the coal energy into light or power at the source of supply, and the distribution by pipe or wire of the product to the houses and factories that otherwise would get it direct. This form of economy is only in its infancy in the United Kingdom, but, owing to the enormously increased cost of carriage both by land and sea, it is at last receiving serious attention. The question involves problems of economic dynamics that would make a layman shudder, and are apparently the excuse for bringing into being enormously expensive Ministries that produce no apparently valuable results.

FARMERS AND RAILWAYS.

Products, from the point of view of transport, fall into three classes—agricultural produce and live stock, minerals, and manufactured articles. Fortunately for the student, if not for the country, the transport problem in Ireland centres about the first-named. Ireland produces no minerals to speak of, and her manufactured articles, yarns and cloth, hemp goods, alcoholic liquors, biscuits, shirts and collars, hosiery, and so forth, are, almost without exception, produced on or immediately adjacent to tide water. The Irish transport problem, therefore, involves, first, the collection of agricultural products and live stock for export and the corresponding distribution of manufactured articles and imported food stuffs to the agricultural producers. Stated in that way, the thing sounds simple enough. Probably it is its simplicity that makes it such a problem. In the first place, the total producing area of Ireland—that is to say, the area from every part of which goods must be removed for export—is as extensive as that of England. But the value of the goods to be moved is infinitely less, and even after generous allowance has been made for the higher capital cost of English lines, Irish railways must receive a much higher percentage on the value of the goods carried if they are to pay their way. If the Irish railway system was extended to tap the country with anything like economic completeness, the cost would be absolutely prohibitive.

Before the war the Irish farmer was at the mercy of the railways, whose rates did not even then permit him to compete successfully in the English markets with the agricultural producers of France, Holland, and Denmark. To-day the question of competition is eliminated, for the consumers in England need the produce. But the transport question is more acute than ever. To meet a greater volume of export the railways have no increased facilities, but, rather, dilapidated rolling stock, a permanent way that has suffered from neglect during the war, and inferior coal. The cost of labour and fuel has risen enormously, and to-day, if the Irish railways are to be run other than at a loss, they are compelled to offer their never satisfactory and now much deteriorated service at an enormously increased price. This is not a temporary, but a permanent, condition. No hope is held out of any amelioration in the near future. The Irish farmer, accordingly, is faced with the problem of bearing with ridiculously high freight charges and most inferior facilities for establishing some new method of transport that will take the place, partially, if not entirely, of the railroads.

TRANSPORT BY ROAD.

It is not surprising, in these circumstances, that the question of transport by road is very much in the mind of Irish producers at the moment. Needless to say, road haulage never can, except within certain well defined limits, be anything more than an adjunct to rail or sea traffic. For certain classes of freight—live cattle, for example—it is wholly unsuited, nor is it economically superior to rail traffic for long distance carriage. The maximum distance over which road transport appears to be cheaper than rail in almost every case appears to be between thirty and forty miles. Within these limits the cost of road transport is demonstrably lower, and, as the distance decreases, the discrepancy becomes more marked. The cost of road transport is constant over all distances, while that of rail transport increases enormously as the haul is shortened.

Thus, the present cost of hauling coal by road (steam wagons) thirty miles is about seven-twelfths the cost of moving it by rail. But over a distance of ten miles the steam wagon costs less than a third of what must be paid for rail transport. The average rate for moving freight by rail over a distance of from six to thirty miles (excluding the more expensive classes of freight) is 1s. 7½d. per ton mile. Corresponding road transport costs from 1s. 2½d. down to 2½d. per ton mile, according to whether a one-ton lorry or a steam wagon and trailer is used. Moreover, the rail rate is from station to station, and in the majority of cases additional haulage by horse or motor at either end is involved—not to mention double handling. The road haulage, on the other hand, is from door to door.

It is one thing, however, to demonstrate the theoretic cheapness of road as compared to rail haulage in certain conditions and within certain limits, and entirely another thing to devise a scheme for bringing the advantages of the former to the door of the small or occasional producer. Large industrial and agricultural concerns that can use their own lorries or wagons continuously, and, therefore, economically, already are doing so. What is required now is some sort of co-operative effort which will result in the establishment throughout the country of small fleets of motor vehicles which will collect agricultural produce and bring it to a central point, either on rail or tide water, and reload with imported food stuffs and manufactured articles for distribution on the return journey. Such systems already are making their appearance in England, as also are clearing stations through which private owners of lorries can get loads for their return journeys. There seems to be no reason why Irish producers, whose need is proportionately greater, should not get together and form the nucleus of a system of road transport that could so easily increase their profits and diminish their difficulties.

CURRAGH COURTMARTIAL.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

At a district courtmartial at the Curragh Camp yesterday Charles Hugh McNally, a bank official, and Fenton Brennan, Canal Company agent, both of Monasterevan, were charged with having arms and ammunition not under the control of the effective military authority—viz., two revolvers, 15 sporting guns, 19 single barrel shooting guns. Another charge was connected with 87 rounds of small arms ammunition, 117 rounds of revolver ammunition, 91 rounds of 22 bore ammunition, and 182 rounds of sporting ammunition. The prisoners refused to recognise the court.

The case of McNally, with regard to the possession of arms, was first taken.

A lieutenant stated that on September 29 he arrested Brennan at Monasterevan, and afterwards took McNally into custody at the Hibernian Bank. He had been staying with Brennan. He found on McNally an automatic pistol magazine, with five rounds of ammunition in it. He also found documents with regard to the collection of arms.

The other charges against both prisoners were then taken.

A military officer stated that he was present at the search of Brennan's house, where McNally also lived, and he saw the arms and ammunition being found. Some were got in a haystak, others in a pigsty, and others in a bedroom. In a cupboard they found Irish Volunteer papers, a military waist belt, and two flash lamps. A portmanteau, of which McNally had the key, contained three black masks, a revolver, and a book containing instructions for the making of explosives.

[illegible] of other witnesses having been examined, the court reserved judgment.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

THE GOVERNMENT AND IRELAND.

The joint letter from Viscount Grey and Lord Robert Cecil, demanding "full, open, and immediate investigation by a constitutional tribunal into Irish 'reprisals'"; the Chief Secretary's announcement at Belfast, that the Government intend "to enlarge the Home Rule Bill in the most generous way possible"; the Ministerial whip to members of the Coalition; the speech of Mr. J. R. Clynes at Norwich; and the remarkable utterance of Mr. Bodkin, K.C., County Court Judge of Clare, prove once again, were proof needed, that grave urgency of the Irish situation, observes The Times to-day in its editorial comment. Among these manifestations Lord Grey's and Lord Robert Cecil's letter comes first in order of importance. If we remember rightly, they have never before acted jointly in any domestic political issue, though their common devotion to the ideal of the League of Nations suggests that on matters of a more general nature their ideas are akin. Sir Hamar Greenwood's speech at Belfast, The Times continues, shows that the Government have at last awakened to some of the defects of what we recently called their "emaciated and discredited Government of Ireland Bill." We have often urged upon them the necessity of amending their measure so as to make it a potential basis for the evolution in Ireland of a constitutional system of self-government that Irishmen themselves could eventually join in working, and we shall await the amendments foreshadowed by Sir Hamar Greenwood before appraising their intrinsic value. But we wonder why the Government have waited so long to make of their bill a more satisfactory instrument of Irish self-government. If financial and fiscal amendments are justified now, they were equally justified last winter, and their introduction at this moment, when a higher issue has been raised by the reprisals policy, may tend to deprive the amendments of fair consideration.

REPRISALS.

The following letter, signed by Viscount Grey and Lord Robert Cecil, appears in The Times to-day:—In his speech at Carnarvon the Prime Minister appeared to think that "reprisals" in Ireland were confined to the shooting by the police of those who were reasonably suspected of intention to attack them, or had been incontrovertibly guilty of the murder of their fellows. That is a very incomplete account of "reprisals" as reported in the Press. It is alleged, on apparently overwhelming evidence, that the armed Forces of the Crown have, for months past, systematically burnt or destroyed buildings and other property in the towns and villages and farms of Ireland; that they have fired rifles and thrown bombs at random, killing and wounding the inhabitants; that they have driven women and children in terror to the fields and mountains. These acts have, no doubt, been committed in revenge for horrible outrages perpetrated in the districts concerned, but have not been confined to the individuals who have been guilty of such outrages. On the contrary, the victims have included Protestants and Unionists, who used to be bitter opponents of Sinn Fein. It is further alleged that the policy which has produced these results was sanctioned by Ministers of the Crown, including the Prime Minister himself. These are grave charges, and require full, open and immediate investigation by a constitutional tribunal.

THE MARRIAGE OF THE PRINCE.

The Times, in a leading article to-day, says:—The keenest public interest centres round the Prince of Wales, and, though there is the strongest desire to respect his privacy, the public watch him with almost parental anxiety. Everywhere fervent wishes for his health and prosperity are the staple of conversation. It would be strange if the topic of his marriage were not very often on the lips and near to the hearts of his countrymen and countrywomen. He is 26, and the marriage of the Prince of Wales is inevitably a matter of deep public concern. We desire to speak of it with proper reticence, expressing within these bounds what we believe to be the real anxiety of the country, that he should make a wise choice. The war, in this as in most other things, has, we believe, wrought a great change in public opinion, which—here and elsewhere in the Empire—would, we are convinced, be strongly adverse from the thought that there should be any compulsion upon the Prince of Wales to make a marriage of policy. For him, within the comparatively narrow limits that his position must impose upon him, the British peoples would wish a marriage of true happiness, and this, it is our way to believe, means a marriage of inclination. It follows naturally that the hope for him is that his wife may be one of his own race, for, though there have been fortunate exceptions, it is certainly true that marriages of policy with Princesses of foreign birth have not had the primary condition of happiness. Farther than to give expression to this national wish for the Prince we shall not go, adding only that we doubt whether there is now the need that there may have been before the war to limit the choice of the Prince to the circle of the blood royal.

D'ANNUNZIO'S DEFIANCE.

The Special Correspondent of The Times at Fiume sends the following message under Monday's date:—Signor Gabriele d'Annunzio will refuse to abide by the decisions of the Adriatic Conference unless they meet with his full approval. In an interview he said—"I shall immediately occupy any territory now held by the Italian Army and Navy should the Government consent to evacuate it. I have ample force at my disposal to do this, and, besides, I know positively that the Italian forces in the occupied territories of Istria and Dalmatia will refuse to obey the Government, and will accept my leadership. In any case, I shall act within six hours after the news reaches me of the Government's forbearance. In that event I am certain that, if the Yugo-Slavs attack me, all Italy will rise as one in defence of Adriatic supremacy, and force the Government to support me." I suggested to Signor d'Annunzio that the logical outcome of his plans would lead him to Rome. He replied—"I know. I started from Ronchi with 280 men, and arrived at Fiume with 6,000." D'Annunzio has 6,000 fine shock troops, 30 aeroplanes, one dreadnought, two cruisers, five destroyers, and about ten smaller craft.

THE FALL IN PRICES.

The fall in prices of commodities continues to dominate discussion in business circles, says The Times. It is, however, desirable to emphasise the fact that a persistent decline in prices is not to be expected. After the Napoleonic wars prices fell gradually over a long period of years. The curve fluctuated sharply from time to time, but the declining tendency was gradual. If history repeats itself, stability of prices, in the sense that it was understood before the war, is not to be expected for some years. In one quarter the suggestion has been made that the calling of attention to the fall in commodities is making it difficult for holders of goods to market them at all. But the public is not likely to waste its sympathy on the difficulties of those speculators who turned a deaf ear to the warnings which have been given to them not to hold back commodities, but to sell them at a loss, if necessary. No loss would have been sustained if these people had heeded the advice which has been given them persistently by their bankers for the past two years. The fact is that the sellers of goods, and especially the speculative element, have had a remarkably long innings, and the consumer is now hoping that his turn is beginning to arrive.

IRELAND'S TRANSPORT PROBLEM.

ROAD VERSUS RAIL.

(FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

There is no civilised country in the world to-day that lives, economically speaking, by taking in its own washing. Each sends commodities of one sort or another to its neighbours and receives other articles in exchange. The transport operation involved is fundamentally the same in nearly every case. From many sources of supply spread over a wide area small parcels of commodities are drawn to some central point of assembly and export, generally on tide water. To this point, conversely, imports are brought in bulk whence they are distributed through the same channels of transport to the numerous producing points. The port of export and import is the centre of a circle, on the circumference of which lie the many producers of exports and consumers of imports. A similar process goes on in regard to a country's internal trade. For the most part, the big cities like Dublin and Belfast, or intensive industrial areas like the South Wales coal fields, lie at the centre of the circle, and the farms, villages, market towns, and small industrial communities on the circumference. But it is quite usual for a community to form the centre of one circle and at the same time to lie on the circumference of several others.

For fairly obvious reasons the commodities produced and received by a country, a community, or an individual, are approximately equal in value. Transport would be a comparatively simple problem if they were also equal in weight and bulk. But that is seldom the case. Coal is a notable instance of this discrepancy. The tonnage export of any coal-mining district is out of all proportion to its tonnage receipts. In these cases the question of returned empties becomes important, and may indeed be said to form ninety per cent. of the transport problem. The transport of empty receptacles is an absolutely unproductive expenditure of energy. In some cases the difficulty has been overcome—notably in the case of mineral oil which is piped instead of being carried by rail. The United States alone has some thousands of oil pipe-lines. In the case of coal the waste haulage also can be coped with to a certain extent by the transformation of the coal energy into light or power at the source of supply, and the distribution by pipe or wire of the product to the houses and factories that otherwise would get it direct. This form of economy is only in its infancy in the United Kingdom, but, owing to the enormously increased cost of carriage both by land and sea, it is at last receiving serious attention. The question involves problems of economic dynamics that would make a layman shudder, and are apparently the excuse for bringing into being enormously expensive Ministries that produce no apparently valuable results.

FARMERS AND RAILWAYS.

Products, from the point of view of transport, fall into three classes—agricultural produce and live stock, minerals, and manufactured articles. Fortunately for the student, if not for the country, the transport problem in Ireland centres about the first-named. Ireland produces no minerals to speak of, and her manufactured articles, yarns and cloth, hemp goods, alcoholic liquors, biscuits, shirts and collars, hosiery, and so forth, are, almost without exception, produced on or immediately adjacent to tide water. The Irish transport problem, therefore, involves, first, the collection of agricultural products and live stock for export and the corresponding distribution of manufactured articles and imported food stuffs to the agricultural producers. Stated in that way, the thing sounds simple enough. Probably it is its simplicity that makes it such a problem. In the first place, the total producing area of Ireland—that is to say, the area from every part of which goods must be removed for export—is as extensive as that of England. But the value of the goods to be moved is infinitely less, and even after generous allowance has been made for the higher capital cost of English lines, Irish railways must receive a much higher percentage on the value of the goods carried if they are to pay their way. If the Irish railway system was extended to tap the country with anything like economic completeness, the cost would be absolutely prohibitive.

Before the war the Irish farmer was at the mercy of the railways, whose rates did not even then permit him to compete successfully in the English markets with the agricultural producers of France, Holland, and Denmark. To-day the question of competition is eliminated, for the consumers in England need the produce. But the transport question is more acute than ever. To meet a greater volume of export the railways have no increased facilities, but, rather, dilapidated rolling stock, a permanent way that has suffered from neglect during the war, and inferior coal. The cost of labour and fuel has risen enormously, and to-day, if the Irish railways are to be run other than at a loss, they are compelled to offer their never satisfactory and now much deteriorated service at an enormously increased price. This is not a temporary, but a permanent, condition. No hope is held out of any amelioration in the near future. The Irish farmer, accordingly, is faced with the problem of bearing the ridiculously high freight charges and most inferior facilities for establishing some new method of transport that will take the place, partially, if not entirely, of the railroads.

TRANSPORT BY ROAD.

It is not surprising, in these circumstances, that the question of transport by road is very much in the mind of Irish producers at the moment. Needless to say, road haulage never can, except within certain well defined limits, do anything more than an adjunct to rail or sea traffic. For certain classes of freight—cattle, for example—it is wholly unsuited, as it is economically superior to rail traffic over long distance carriage. The maximum distance over which road transport appears to be cheaper than rail in almost every case appears to be between thirty and forty miles. Within these limits the cost of road transport is demonstrably lower, and, as the distance decreases, the discrepancy becomes more marked. The cost of road transport is constant over all distances, while that of rail transport increases enormously as the haul is shortened. Thus, the present cost of hauling coal by road (steam wagons) thirty miles is about seven-fifths the cost of moving it by rail. But over a distance of ten miles the steam wagon costs less than a third of what must be paid for rail transport. The average rate for moving freight by rail over a distance of from six to thirty miles, excluding the more expensive classes of freight, is 1s. 7½d. per ton mile. Corresponding road transport costs from 1s. 2½d. down to 2¼d. per ton mile, according to whether a one-ton lorry or a steam wagon and trailer is used. However, the rail rate is from station to station, and in the majority of cases additional haulage by horse or motor at either end is involved—not mentioning double handling. The road haulage, on the other hand, is from door to door.

It is one thing, however, to demonstrate the theoretic cheapness of road as compared to rail haulage in certain conditions and within certain limits, and entirely another thing to devise a scheme for bringing the advantages of it home to the door of the small or occasional producer. Large industrial and agricultural concerns that can use their own lorries continuously, and, therefore, economically, already are doing so. What is required is some sort of co-operative effort which will result in the establishment throughout the country of small fleets of motor vehicles which will collect agricultural produce and bring it to a central point, either on rail or tide water, and load with imported food stuffs and manufactured articles for distribution on the return. Such systems already are making their appearance in England, as also are clearing stations through which private owners of lorries can get loads for their return journeys. There seems to be no reason why Irish producers, whose need is proportionately greater, should not get together and form the nucleus of a system of road transport that could so easily increase their profits and diminish their difficulties.

CURRAGH COURTMARTIAL.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

At a district courtmartial at the Curragh yesterday Charles Hugh McNally, a bank clerk, and Fenton Brennan, Canal Company clerk, both of Monasterevan, were charged with having arms and ammunition not under control of the effective military authority—[illegible] revolvers, 15 sporting guns, 19 single [illegible] guns. Another charge was concerned with 87 rounds of small arms ammunition, 117 rounds of revolver ammunition, 91 rounds of .22 bore ammunition, and 182 rounds of sporting ammunition. The prisoners refused to recognise the court.

In the case of McNally, with regard to the possession of arms, evidence was first taken.

A Lieutenant stated that on September 29 he went to Brennan at Monasterevan, and afterwards took McNally into custody at the Hibernian Bank. He had been staying with Brennan. [illegible] on McNally an automatic pistol [illegible] with five rounds of ammunition in it. He found documents with regard to the [illegible] of arms.

Other charges against both prisoners were taken.

A military officer stated that he was present at the search of Brennan's house, where McNally also lived, and he saw the arms and ammunition being found. Some were got in a [illegible], others in a pigsty, and others in a [illegible]. In a cupboard they found Irish [illegible] papers, a military waist belt, and [illegible] lamps. A portmanteau, of which [illegible] had the key, contained three black [illegible], a revolver, and a book containing instructions for the making of explosives.

[illegible] other witnesses having been [illegible], the court reserved judgment.

THE GOVERNMENT AND IRELAND.

The joint letter from Viscount Grey and Lord Robert Cecil, demanding "full, open, and immediate investigation by a constitutional tribunal into Irish 'reprisals'"; the Chief Secretary's announcement at Belfast, that the Government intend "to enlarge the Home Rule Bill in the most generous way possible"; the Ministerial whip to members of the Coalition; the speech of Mr. J. R. Clynes at Norwich; and the remarkable utterance of Mr. Bodkin, K.C., County Court Judge of Clare, prove once again, were proof needed, that grave urgency of the Irish situation, observes The Times to-day in its editorial comment. Among these manifestations Lord Grey's and Lord Robert Cecil's letter comes first in order of importance. If we remember rightly, they have never before acted jointly in any domestic political issue, though their common devotion to the ideal of the League of Nations suggests that on matters of a more general nature their ideas are akin. Sir Hamar Greenwood's speech at Belfast, The Times continues, shows that the Government have at last awakened to some of the defects of what we recently called their "emaciated and discredited Government of Ireland Bill." We have often urged upon them the necessity of amending their measure so as to make it a potential basis for the evolution in Ireland of a constitutional system of self-government that Irishmen themselves could eventually join in working, and we shall await the amendments foreshadowed by Sir Hamar Greenwood before appraising their intrinsic value. But we wonder why the Government have waited so long to make of their bill a more satisfactory instrument of Irish self-government. If financial and fiscal amendments are justified now, they were equally justified last winter, and their introduction at this moment, when a higher issue has been raised by the reprisals policy, may tend to deprive the amendments of fair consideration.

The following letter, signed by Viscount Grey and Lord Robert Cecil, appears in The Times to-day:—In his speech at Carnarvon the Prime Minister appeared to think that "reprisals" in Ireland were confined to the shooting by the police of those who were reasonably suspected of intention to attack them, or had been incontrovertibly guilty of the murder of their fellows. POLISH SITUATION.

PROPOSED RENEWAL OF NEGOTIATIONS.

LITHUANIA'S ATTITUDE.

Count Zamoyski, Polish Minister in Paris, visited M. Leygues on Tuesday evening, and declared to him that the Polish Government completely disavowed General Zeligowski, and would take every measure to bring the troops who had captured Vilna to reason.

Reuter's Agency learns that the Lithuanian Government yesterday received the following Note from Prince Sapiha, Polish Foreign Minister:—"In the hope that the war between Poland and Soviet Russia will shortly be brought to an end, and in view of the fact that the Polish troops have completed the operations laid down in the Polish declaration made on October 4th, during the fourth meeting of the Polish and Lithuanian delegations at Suwalki, the High Command of the Polish Army agrees to cease hostilities, and proposes the following line of demarcation:—Bastuny, Oszmian, Soly, Svenciany, which towns are already under Polish occupation. On the basis of the agreement arrived at on October 7th, at Suwalki, I have the honour to propose to the Lithuanian Government that the negotiations laid down by Articles B and C of the said agreement should be commenced on October 13th at Orany. With regard to the information contained in your telegram of October 7th, concerning the capture of Jassuny by Polish troops, the Polish Headquarters Staff has no information on that point. I hasten to assure you that the Polish High Command has issued no order which could lead to such action. I await your reply to my proposal for the re-opening of direct negotiations on October 13th at Orany."

The Lithuanian Government is agreeing to the re-opening of negotiations, but demands that the Polish troops be immediately withdrawn from Vilna, and that the Polish Government declares clearly its attitude to the so-called Government of Zeligowski-Abramovitch. It adds that in the event of the Polish Government's disclaiming General Zeligowski's action, it must cut off all military supplies and other assistance from General Zeligowski.

A Copenhagen telegram states that, in accordance with details of the preliminary peace which have reached Riga the Russian troops will retire six days after the signing of the treaty, and the Polish troops fifteen days after, the neutral zone to be 30 kilometres in depth.

MANCHURIAN UNREST.

THE HUN CHUN RAID.

A JAPANESE PROTEST.

A Peking telegram, dated October 7th, says—The Japanese Minister has formally protested to the Chinese Foreign Office against the raid on Hun Chun, Manchuria, by Chinese and Korean bandits, in which the Japanese Consulate was burned and a number of Japanese killed. The protest lays emphasis on the inability of the Chinese military at Hun Chun to maintain order. Tokio despatches state that the people are much exercised there regarding the safety of Japanese residents in the Hun Chun district, where a second attack was made by bandits on October 3rd, but was repelled by Japanese guards.

In a message dated Tokio, October 10, Reuter's Correspondent says:—The situation north of the Korean border, as instanced by the raid on Hun Chun, is officially regarded here as grave and requiring prompt action. A Foreign Office statement issued to-day says:—Some of the attackers on Hun Chun wore Chinese uniform. The Japanese Government, the statement continues, cannot pass over in silence the evidence of the part played by Chinese soldiers. If this proves to be a conclusive fact, the Chinese Government will be increasingly responsible for the Hun Chun incident.

Telegraphing from Peking on October 10th, Reuter's Correspondent says:—A mandate issued by the Government to-day states that it was greatly surprised by the news of the raid on Hun Chun on the 3rd instant, and that the provincial authorities have been instructed to send the military police to restore order and fully protect foreigners, and to report to the Government.

MESOPOTAMIA.

The War Office yesterday issued the following communiqué:—

On the Lower Euphrates our posts on the left bank at Nasrie have been sniped at. On October 10th our aeroplanes bombed the hostile quarters in Samawa town. The relief column on that night reached a point six miles west of Khidr. Serious and extensive damage was found to have been done to the railway and telegraph lines, but repairing parties have been able to advance the rail-head to a point some three miles in the rear of the column.

On the Middle Euphrates the 53rd and 55th Brigade columns have completed their concentration at Hilla, preparatory to operations for the relief of Kufa, and for clearing up the country west of it, which were due to commence on the 11th.

POSITION IN ARMENIA.

It is learned at the Quai d'Orsay, says a Paris telegram, that the Nationalist Forces are entering Armenia by three main routes—Olti, Bardoussa, and Karucour—and are converging on the fortress of Kars. The Georgians are preparing to protect their frontier. Meanwhile the Bolsheviks are reported to be massing material at Trebizond.

Reuter's Agency is informed by the Russian Liberation Committee that it has received the following telegram, dated Constantinople, Monday:—The Georgians have entered Armenian territory, and have occupied Ardager.

THE RAILWAY CRISIS.

REFUSAL TO CARRY SOLDIERS.

RAILWAYMEN DISMISSED.

When the 2 p.m. train from Kildare arrived at the Newbridge Station yesterday a number of troops, bearing arms, took their places in the carriages. The fireman, guard, and driver refused to work the train. After a delay of twenty minutes, the officer in charge of the troops ordered the men to leave the train, which then proceeded on its way. On enquiry at the general manager's office at Kingsbridge, our representative was told that the "usual disciplinary measures would be taken."

The 9.30 a.m. train from Wexford was delayed yesterday at Rathdrum, when a number of soldiers entered the carriages. The railwaymen refused to start the train. After some time the troops were withdrawn, and the journey to Dublin was continued. The railway officials state that the usual disciplinary measures will be taken by the company. The train was twenty minutes late. A similar incident took place on Tuesday at Rathdrum, when the military entered the train, and a delay of half an hour took place.

The train which left Galway yesterday morning at 7.30 was boarded at Mullingar by a number of soldiers in uniform, and carrying arms, whereupon the railwaymen refused to start the train, which remained in the station until the military left the carriages. A delay of about forty minutes was caused.

The 9.30 a.m. Cork to Macroom train was boarded at Capwell Station yesterday by a party of armed soldiers. The engine-driver, fireman, and guard refused to continue, and were dismissed. The train could not proceed. The three o'clock train from Cork to Macroom left as usual.

The service on the Great Northern Railway of Ireland yesterday was carried out as usual, and no interruption of any kind occurred.

STILL HIGHER RAIL FARES.

The railway companies proposed yesterday to the Rates Advisory Committee that there should be statutory recognition of the principle that railway charges should return 5 per cent. on the existing capital expenditure, with higher rates for new capital, and that all maximum rates should be suspended until the new rate schedules had been brought into operation, and then abolished.

Sir William Plender, in evidence before the Committee, stated that to obtain a return on all railway capital of 5 per cent. it would be necessary to increase the gross revenue by about 10 million pounds, an increase of 4 per cent. on the 1920 revenue of £241,000,000. The grouping of the railways, the elimination of competition, and the changing of the channels of trade might have effects which could not be calculated upon.

If the present pool of receipts were discontinued, provision must be made by the group for those companies whose receipts would not reach their 1913 net revenue. Some companies, for instance, had had their traffic diverted by other routes.

Sir John Simon said he proposed to submit to the Committee the proposals of the companies, and to call Sir Alexander Butterworth to explain these from the witness box.

He then handed in to the Committee a summary of the company's proposals, the most important of which were—"The railway companies ask for statutory recognition of the principle that railway charges should be such as will, under efficient and economical management, earn a net annual railway income sufficient to yield a fair return upon the capital employed, and they consider that, taking the railways as a whole, such return should be fixed at 5 per cent. on the aggregate existing capital expenditure, as shown in the published accounts of the companies, together with such higher rate upon any new capital which may have to be expended in the future as may be necessary to be paid in order to raise the new capital."

BIG EXPLOSION IN CO. WEXFORD.

UNOCCUPIED HOUSE DESTROYED.

SEVEN PERSONS KILLED.

FIVE WOUNDED AND IN CUSTODY.

TWO REPORTED MISSING.

A startling occurrence was brought to light in an official report which was issued from Dublin Castle last night.

As the result of an explosion in the County Wexford, a house was demolished and seven persons were killed.

Several others were wounded, and two are reported missing.

The wounded persons are in custody.

The official report is the only news of the affair that reached Dublin during the night.

It states that yesterday an explosion occurred in an unoccupied house at Tintern, County Wexford.

The house was completely destroyed, and seven persons were killed, five were wounded and are now in custody, and two persons are missing.

It is believed that they were experimenting with bombs when the explosion occurred.

[Tintern is a little town on Bannow Bay, in South County Wexford, with a population of 950. It is within four miles of Fethard and twenty of the town of Wexford.]

MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR AT SKIBBEREEN.

MAN SHOT DEAD IN A WORK-HOUSE.

Telegraphing from Dunmanway yesterday our Correspondent states:—This morning about 10 o'clock a young man, believed to be from the Kilbrittan district, was shot dead by masked men as he was leaving the Skibbereen Workhouse, where he had slept last night. He had handed over a revolver, some ammunition and fuse, and a whistle to the police yesterday, and is believed to have been a Volunteer.

Another report says:—A man, describing himself as a watchmaker, entered the Workhouse last evening on a ticket. When leaving this morning in company with others he was met at the gate by a masked man with a revolver, who there and then shot him dead. Three shots were fired, two taking effect in the head almost instantly. The man wore a blue trousers and trench coat, and was about 25 years of age. There appears to be a mystery attached to the dead man.

A Press Association telegram from Skibbereen says:—The man who was shot dead in the Workhouse grounds at Skibbereen yesterday was arrested two months ago by Sinn Feiners, but escaped from his captors. He tried to defend himself.

SINN FEIN COURTS.

DOCUMENTS SEIZED AT LISTOWEL.

Our Listowel Correspondent writes:—The Listowel District Arbitration Court, which was being held in the Union Workhouse boardroom, was broken up shortly after it had opened on Monday by a number of the Cadet auxiliary police force. The Rev. C. O'Sullivan, C.C., President, occupied the chair, and associated with him were Dr. M. O'Connor and Mr. P. O'Hanlon. A large number of litigants attended, and just as a solicitor was opening a case the officer and his men entered. The officer asked what was the object of the assembly, and was informed that it was a court of arbitration.

The officer then ordered the room to be cleared of the general public, after which he seized all the documents and ordered the arbitrators, solicitors, and the clerk to leave. They were next lined up in front of the workhouse and searched, with the exception of Father O'Sullivan. After the search the military party left.

Our Youghal Correspondent writes that on Tuesday evening, in broad daylight, in the middle of North Main street, Youghal, a military cyclist, with dispatches, was stopped by two armed, but unmasked, men. One of them presented a revolver, while the other searched the soldier, took possession of the letters and his bicycle, and rode away. Great military activity was displayed subsequently. Lorries raced round the town and district, and searches were carried out, but without result.

Official reports received at Dublin Castle yesterday states that the mail car driver from Farranfore to Castleisland was held up yesterday morning at Liskeenbawn by armed and masked men, who took away the mail bags and searched them, returning them open afterwards.

The Local Government of Dáil Eireann has refused sanction to the Granard Guardians' proposal to make a grant of £10 to the Belfast Expelled Workers' Fund, because such a payment should not come out of the ratepayers' money.

The Rev. J. W. Meehan, Roman Catholic curate, who was arrested in Castlebar on Tuesday morning and was afterwards conveyed under escort to Galway, has been released from custody. A telegram received at Castlebar from him stated that he had been released pending a trial.

POLICE BARRACK ATTACKED.

AN HOUR'S FIGHT.

RAIDERS BEATEN OFF.

An official report issued from Dublin Castle yesterday stated:—

The police barrack at Dunmanway, County Cork, was attacked this morning with hand grenades and rifle fire. The attack lasted an hour, when the attackers were beaten off. One constable was badly wounded.

Telegraphing from Dunmanway yesterday our Correspondent states:—Between 80 and 100 armed civilians opened a determined attack with rifles and grenades on the Dunmanway police barrack at 1.30 a.m. this morning, but were driven off after an hour's desperate fighting. The garrison of thirty-one policemen made a gallant defence, replying with rifle and machine gun fire and hand grenades.

At 1.30 the guard was surprised by rifle fire directed at the building, front and rear, and cries of "Surrender." Wireless messages for assistance were at once transmitted to the surrounding stations, and reinforcements from Skibbereen, Bantry, Clonakilty, Bandon, and Drimoleague were quickly despatched by motor lorry. Meantime the garrison sprang to their posts, refusing to surrender, and a stiff fight ensued for an hour, when the attackers fled, taking, it is believed, some wounded comrades with them. The garrison had one man (Constable Cahill) wounded.

There is great military activity in the district to-day, several houses being raided, but so far no arrests have been made.

WOUNDED CONSTABLE'S DEATH.

Our Roscommon Correspondent telegraphs:—Constable Gallagher has died at Strokestown as the result of the ambush at Fourmilehouse, Roscommon, on Tuesday. The other wounded man, O'Rahilly, has been removed to a Dublin hospital. Last night the people were so terrified of reprisals that many families left their homes for friends' houses in the country. Few went to bed, and a most anxious night was passed. Shots from a military sentry at the Courthouse gate at one o'clock intensified the alarm. There were no reprisals.

A military inquiry into the affair was held yesterday at Strokestown Barrack, when it was shown that there were eight policemen in a motor lorry when it was attacked. Two men were killed on the spot, another died afterwards, and two others, of whom Kelleher was one, were wounded. The inquiry concluded.

SENTRY WOUNDED IN DUBLIN.

An official report issued from General Headquarters, Parkgate, Dublin, yesterday, stated that shots were fired at the sentry on duty at the Magazine Fort, Phoenix Park, at half-past three in the morning. The sentry was wounded. A patrol was sent out, and a civilian was arrested.

MILITARY SEARCH IN DUBLIN.

Four lorries, containing soldiers and other Crown forces, accompanied by an armoured car, arrived in Exchequer street, Dublin, at half-past seven yesterday evening. Cordons were drawn across each end of the street, and a party demanded admittance to Exchequer Chambers, which include a number of business offices. The housekeeper locked himself in his apartments, but his wife admitted the soldiers, who put a guard on the housekeeper, and then searched the premises. They stated that they were looking for a particular person. The military withdrew an hour later.

A plain clothes member of the forces became detached from the main body, and was left behind. He boarded a tramcar in George's street, but was followed by a number of youths, who ejected him at the corner of Dame street. He was knocked down, and it is stated that a revolver was taken from him. The man eventually escaped, and took refuge inside the gate of Dublin Castle.

The licensed premises of Mr. Philip Ryan, 42 Usher's quay, were also searched by military yesterday morning. After making a search, Ryan and his foreman, Christopher Clery, were arrested and confined in the Bridewell.

A cottage at the rear of the shop, occupied by a family named Hetherington, was also searched.

James Shaw, residing in Mary's lane, has been arrested by the military, and is in custody in Mountjoy Jail.

SEARCH IN CLONDALKIN.

A raid was made last Sunday on the residence of Mr. Michael Costello, Clondalkin, Co. Dublin, a member of the Dublin County Council. After making a search, a document is alleged to have been shown to Mr. Costello, in which he was warned that he would be held responsible for the death by violence of any soldier or policeman in the Clondalkin district. He was further warned that the paper mills there would be destroyed.

DISTURBANCES ON THE QUAYS.

Small crowds assembled on the North side quays between ten and eleven o'clock last night, and a few soldiers were chased. An armoured car arrived about half-past ten, and patrolled the district, the crowds dispersing on the approach of the vehicle. There was some cheering and excitement, and the tramway service was discontinued. The situation was normal by half-past eleven.

OFFICIAL SEARCHES OF VESSELS.

During yesterday morning detectives visited some vessels that had arrived in the port of Dublin, and carried out searches for arms. It is stated that this procedure may be necessary for a few days. No seizures were made.

GUARDIANS AND THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD.

INSPECTOR EJECTED FROM A WORKHOUSE.

Our Mullingar Correspondent states:—When Mr. Pack-Beresford, Local Government Board Inspector, who has for many years carried out the annual inspection of the Mullingar Union Workhouse, called for that purpose on Wednesday, he was informed that the Guardians did not require his services any more. Mr. Beresford having expressed his intention of carrying out the inspection, some members of the Volunteers tried to dissuade him from doing so. Mr. Beresford insisted on remaining, and he was taken up bodily and left on the roadside opposite the workhouse. It is understood that he received no injury of any sort.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.

ENGLISH EDITOR AND PUBLISHER FINED.

In the King's Bench, London, yesterday, before the Lord Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Darling, and Mr. Justice Avory,

Mr. Disturnal, K.C., appeared to show cause why a writ of attachment should not issue against the editor (Mr. Blumenfeld) of the London Daily Express and the Express Newspapers, Ltd., publishers of the Daily Express, for contempt in printing, publishing, and causing to be printed and published, on September 29th and 30th certain statements calculated to prejudice the fair trial of Michael O'Kelly Simington on a charge of having four Service rifles unlawfully in his possession. Counsel believed it was a charge under the Act of 1920, which made it an offence punishable by summary conviction. Counsel outlined the case against Simington, who was sent for trial, charged with the illegal possession of four rifles and plans of the Irish Office in London. On September 28th, continued Mr. Disturnal, the Daily Express published an article headed: "Sinn Fein Plot in London." "Disclosures that Involve 700 People." "Startling Sequel Possible." The article stated that the rifles and Sinn Fein literature were found at Simington's house in Kellett road, Brixton, and that the house was occupied by a man called Seth McGrath, the local secretary of the Irish Self-Determination League. That, said counsel, was one of the points to which exception was taken.

The second article in the Daily Express was headed—"London Irish Plot." "Elaborate Plans Revealed to the Police." It stated that thousands of letters were seized during the raid on the house at Brixton where the rifles were found. These related to a demonstration outside Brixton Prison in the event of the death of the Lord Mayor of Cork.

Counsel said the point raised about that was as to thousands of letters. It was admitted there were twenty or more, but no thousands.

Mr. Justice Darling—What is the explanation, because the newspaper gives the terms of the letter?

Mr. Disturnal—The explanation is that a reporter was apparently told by somebody about this letter, and took it down and telephoned a report of it to the newspaper, and the newspaper published it in perfect good faith. The Daily Express had done their best to get information as to the origin of this matter.

The Lord Chief Justice, giving judgment, made the rule absolute against Mr. Blumenfeld, and ordered Mr. Blumenfeld and the company each to pay £500 and costs, the writ not to issue if the fine is paid in seven days.

The Selection Committee of the Dundee Trades and Labour Party last night unanimously adopted Mr. E. D. Morel and Councillor R. C. Wallhead, of Manchester, as Parliamentary candidates.

CHIEF SECRETARY IN BELFAST.

THE HOME RULE BILL.

CABINET'S DETERMINATION.

CRIME CAMPAIGN MUST STOP.

TRIBUTE TO THE POLICE.

The Chief Secretary for Ireland, Sir Hamar Greenwood, who was accompanied by Sir John Anderson, Under-Secretary, and Sir Ernest Clark, Assistant Under-Secretary, yesterday received deputations in the City Hall, Belfast. In the early part of the forenoon Labour delegates waited upon him, and discussed the subject of unemployment, with special reference to men expelled from the shipyards. The deputation was representative of all sections of Labour, and the problem was presented from various points of view.

Later a deputation from the Standing Committee of the Ulster Unionist Council was introduced by Lord Londonderry, and laid before him their views on the present political situation in Ireland.

Subsequently the Chief Secretary and Lady Greenwood were entertained to luncheon by the Lord Mayor (Councillor W. F. Coates, J.P.), a number of leading citizens being present.

Sir Hamar, who was cordially received, in reply to the toast of his health, said that he desired to clear up one or two misconceptions. He wished to say that the Lord Lieutenant, the Commander-in-Chief, and himself had been, were now, and so far as he knew, would be in complete accord. None of us, declared Sir Hamar Greenwood, are resigning, and I can say this also of the Police Chief, General Tudor. We have the complete, unanimous, and unfaltering confidence of the British Government. We are not alone in our endeavour to bring peace to Ireland and good-will to Ireland. We are carrying on with the approval and the backing of the Government under the Premiership of Mr. Lloyd George. (Applause.) Be clear on another point. We are going on with the Home Rule Bill. We are not going to deflect from our course by premises of better measures and other measures or no measures. (Hear, hear.) We are prepared to enlarge the Home Rule Bill in the most generous way possible, or to make complete settlement, and final settlement, of what is known as the Irish question, and what is really an Imperial question. The Government is prepared to go further on the financial side in meeting the wishes of the people of Ireland. It follows, therefore, from what I have said that we do not, and will not, tolerate an independent Ireland or part of Ireland being independent. (Applause.) We believe in the Imperial and strategical unity of these islands. We believe that unity is fundamental for the best interests of the United Kingdom and the well-being of the Empire, and we will not bulge on these fundamental verities.

CAMPAIGN OF MURDER.

The real bar to the peace of Ireland and the immediate passing of a bill that will enable Irishmen to govern their affairs is the campaign of deliberate, callous murder, arson, and intimidation in certain parts of Ireland. No Government, no civilised Government, could tolerate that. And I can assure all those who read what I say that it does not make any difference what it costs in men or money or time. The Government will go forward unflinchingly to treat criminals like the criminals they are. (Applause.) We are breaking that terror. In many counties the boycott of police has ceased, and it will cease all over.

Sir Hamar, continuing, said that he would consider himself unworthy of the task of Chief Secretary for Ireland if he did not loyally support as he did every servant of the Crown who served under him—whether he were the humblest recruit in the police force or a man like the distinguished Commander-in-Chief. They had his unfaltering support in Ireland and in the House of Commons, and whatever the future might have in store for their historic Ireland—he thought it would be a great future—it should be seen that the man who stood loyally by the Government to-day would not lose, but would be handsomely and generously treated if they did not wish to serve under any future Parliament or Parliaments in that country. Those who helped them through these difficulties would be a first charge upon the Imperial Exchequer.

THE HOME RULE BILL.

Now, the Government Bill was a Bill that dealt with a great reality, namely, that Ireland was historically and in many other ways divided into two main parts. He regretted it. They might all regret it. But there was the fact that the present was the first Government that had faced the fact. (Applause.) He could speak in reference to this Home Rule measure with personal experience that he believed no other British Cabinet Minister had ever had. He was a Canadian, born and brought up in a country where Home Rule had been in existence for nearly a century, in one form or other. He was one of those who believed that the setting up of two Parliaments in Ireland would not carry with it any of those disabilities and awful consequences that people who know nothing about Home Rule in being were constantly prophesying. The experience of Australia and Canada showed that self-government frequently started with a number of small Parliaments, Parliaments of small areas, sometimes of small populations. But once the responsibility was handed over to local authorities, they developed and worked out their political salvation in their own way. He believed what the Government believed, that if they could get Parliaments in Ireland started, they would work out what would be a glorious political destiny, always provided that Imperial and strategic unity would not be broken.

It was inconceivable to him that it would not be possible for the two new Parliaments to be set up in Ireland to produce the best that was in Ireland in starting the local government of the two areas involved, and he must say that he thought it was the prime duty of every Irishman and Irishwoman throughout the whole land to make it a point in the great and splendid undertaking of local self-government to do everything he or she could for their country. The British Government gave them their opportunity. It was for them to make the most of it.

THE IMMEDIATE PROBLEM.

Referring to the letters from ex-Cabinet Ministers on the Irish question, Sir Hamar said that he thought it ill became those who held high office, and had had great opportunities to deal with measures like the Irish question, to condemn the Government for tackling firmly the difficulties that the Government had inherited, and did not create. That was not the time for adumbrating new theories. The immediate question in Ireland was to make life secure, to make it possible for men and women to really speak what they thought, and that meant that they were faced from day to day with the duty of defeating the campaign of murder, which had already made some of their bravest servants of the Crown and some loyal citizens pay the supreme sacrifice.

THE INNER CIRCLE.

Having referred to the fact that the majority of the loyal constables who had been murdered were Roman Catholics, and that the Force never, in his opinion, felt stronger or more certain it was in the right, Sir Hamar said that they were faced to-day not so much with the Sinn Fein movement as with the inner circle of that movement, the inner circle of men who believed that they could intimidate the Irish Government and the British Government and get the support of the civilised world by a policy of assassination. There was no civilised country in the world that sympathised with that policy. No threat, no murder, no danger, would stop the Irish Government and the British Government from going forward in their efforts to stop that campaign.

SPECIAL CONSTABULARY.

In carrying out the difficult duty of maintaining peace and restoring normal conditions in the country they had decided to set up a system of Special Constabulary on exactly the same lines as prevailed throughout the British Empire, and almost immediately there would be a force composed of selected and patriotic men, who, under the control of the Royal Irish Constabulary, would have the right of every citizen to protect his own home and, with his fellow-constables, to protect the community in which he lived. (Applause.) He hoped the time would not be long distant when the traditional bitterness of the past would disappear, and that they would all unite in a common loyalty, co-partners in that great communion of nations which they called the British Empire, which, when all was said and done, was, in the eloquent words of Lord Rosebery, the greatest secular instrument for good the world had ever seen. (Cheers.)

Lord Londonderry proposed the health of the Lord Mayor, and conveyed to him the thanks of the company for his splendid hospitality. Referring to the Chief Secretary, his lordship described him as the right man in the right place. His words had struck deep down into their hearts. What Ulstermen liked was a direct man like themselves. He had not said everything to please them, but he said what he believed to be true and right, and they thanked him for it. They knew he realised the great Imperial and strategical aspects of the question which were the guiding star in front of them. They knew that he realised the whole fabric of civilisation and the whole happiness of the community and of every community depended upon the maintenance of law and order. That had come to be a more or less trite sentence, but it was full of meaning, and without that law and order there would never be any prospect of prosperity. (Applause.)

The proceedings closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

The Chief Secretary returned to Dublin in the evening.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

FAILURE OF A FRENCH TAX.

Telegraphing from Paris Reuter's Correspondent says:—The revenue returns for September are remarkable for the failure of the tax on business turnovers to realise expectations. It was estimated that the yield for the month would be 700,000,000 francs, but the tax actually produced only 292,791,500 francs.

MR. DAVIS AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Mr. J. W. Davis, American Ambassador to Great Britain, addressing the Chamber of Commerce at Wheeling, West Virginia, yesterday, declared that the League of Nations question should not be made the issue of a political campaign.

MASKED MEN ROB A BANK.

After cutting all the telephone and telegraph wires in the town, says a Winnipeg telegram, five masked men blew open a safe in the Union Bank at Winkler, and escaped with 19,000 dollars. Mr. Claude Williams, cashier, the only person in the building, was awakened by the robbers, who at the pistol's point forced him to open the vault, and then tied him to his bed. A blacksmith named Graffer was shot in the leg when he tried to raise an alarm by ringing the town bell.

GOVERNMENT OF IRELAND BILL.

HOME RULE AND THE IMPERIAL SERVICES.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Unionist Anti-Partition League was held in the offices, 102 Grafton street, Dublin, yesterday, the Earl of Midleton, K.P., presiding.

The proceedings were private, but the League, at the instance of the Chairman, unanimously reaffirmed its uncompromising opposition to the establishment of two Parliaments in Ireland, as proposed by the present bill, and advocated drastic changes in the financial clauses and the completion of land purchase.

Resolutions were taken to give effect to the above points, and to secure full control of Irish affairs and finance by the Irish Parliament, while reserving the Army, Navy, and all Imperial Services to the British Parliament.

THE PREMIER AND "REPRISALS."

LETTER FROM VISCOUNT GREY AND LORD ROBERT CECIL.

The Press Association has received the following letter from Viscount Grey and Lord Robert Cecil:—

October 13th, 1920.

SIR,—In his speech at Carnarvon the Prime Minister appeared to think that "reprisals" in Ireland were confined to the shooting by the police of those who were reasonably suspected of the intention to attack them or had been incontrovertibly guilty of the murder of their fellows. That is a very incomplete account of "reprisals" as reported in the Press. It is alleged on apparently overwhelming evidence that the armed forces of the Crown have for months past systematically burnt or destroyed buildings and other property in the towns and villages and farms of Ireland; that they have fired rifles and thrown bombs at random, killing and wounding the inhabitants; that they have driven women and children of all ages and in all conditions of health in terror to the fields and mountains.

These acts have, no doubt, been committed in revenge for horrible outrages perpetrated in the districts concerned, but have not been confined to the individuals who have been guilty of such outrages. On the contrary, the victims have included Protestants and Unionists, who used to be bitter opponents of Sinn Fein.

It is further alleged that the policy which has produced these results was sanctioned by Ministers of the Crown, including the Prime Minister himself. These are grave charges, and require full, open, and immediate investigation by a constitutional tribunal.—Yours obediently,

GREY OF FALLODEN.
ROBERT CECIL.

MR. CLYNES AND THE PREMIER'S "AWFUL RESPONSIBILITY."

Mr. J. R. Clynes, speaking at Norwich last night, said that the Irish question must be taken in hand by the House of Commons next week, especially after the lamentable and provocative speech of the Prime Minister. The reprehensible murders in Ireland sprang from the disgust and anger of the Irish people at the way their country had been treated by the British, and the Prime Minister ought to have remembered this. It was an awful responsibility for the Prime Minister to take to lend the authority of his name and position to reprisals.

THE CABINET AND HOME RULE BILL.

The Prime Minister presided yesterday over a meeting of a Committee of the Cabinet called to deal with the Government of Ireland Bill and with the Irish question generally. Mr. Walter Long, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Bonar Law, and Sir R. Horne were among the members of the Committee. The meeting was called for 12.30, at which time the Prime Minister was engaged with the Prince of Wales, who had walked over to see him. The Prince, on learning that the Ministers were in attendance, expressed a desire to see them, and the Premier called in his colleagues, with whom His Royal Highness conversed for some time.

COMMANDER KENWORTHY'S VIEWS.

Commander Kenworthy, M.P., speaking at the Town Hall, Stratford, last evening, said, with regard to Ireland, that the murders on both sides were appalling. He was not anxious to see fresh Monarchies set up in Europe, but if a British Prince, as an independent but constitutional King, could satisfy the Irish people, it might be a solution.

JAPAN AND AMERICA.

A Tokio telegram, dated October 7th, says—Following the lead given by the American Associations of Tokio and Yokohama, Viscount Kato, President of the American-Japan Society, has sent the following cable to Mr. Vanderlip, President of the Japan Society of America:—"If the anti-Japanese movement is carried too far the outcome is hard to foretell. Our Japanese members are exerting all the moral forces in Japan for an amelioration of the situation." Viscount Kato, addressing the Opposition Party at the Convention to-day, urged Japan determinedly to uphold the rights of Japanese residents in the United States, and not to conclude a treaty which was pleasing to anti-Japanese Americans.

AIMS OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

A Milan telegram, dated Tuesday, says:—Speaking at the opening of the Conference of the League of Nations Societies here, Signor Tittoni read a message from the Council of the League of Nations, stating that the League aimed at protecting the legitimate rights of nations, and at making possible friendly co-operation between nations in their struggle against common evils. The League would fail in its object of being an independent and impartial High Court, and would fall into general disrepute, if it attempted to safeguard the private interests of particular Governments rather than those of humanity as a whole. The present European conditions were not less disastrous than those which followed other great wars, for, in his opinion, the germs of future wars were latent in the peace treaties. The task of the League of Nations would be a hard one. He hoped that the various Governments would carry out the resolutions of the Brussels Conference, for otherwise they would have a heavy responsibility, and he also hoped that powers of coercion would be granted to the League, so that it might make its decisions respected.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE ENDED.

MEN TO RETURN TO WORK.

As a result of the intervention of the Lord Mayor of Dublin in the shipping dispute, a meeting of representatives of the strikers, accompanied by Alderman William O'Brien, on behalf of the Irish Transport Workers' Union, was held at 11 a.m. yesterday at the Mansion House, Dublin. The Lord Mayor presided, and addressed the men at considerable length. He was cordially received, his remarks being greeted with applause. The proceedings continued for about an hour and a quarter, and after they had closed a letter was handed to the Press representatives for publication. It intimated that, acting on the Lord Mayor's appeal, the men, while maintaining the attitude they had taken up from the beginning, had decided to resume work.

Subsequent to the meeting the Lord Mayor stated that he did not anticipate that any barrier or difficulty would be placed in the way of the men on strike rejoining their ships at once.

Among the strikers and the quayside workers affected by the dispute unqualified satisfaction was expressed yesterday at the outcome of the meeting. It was quite evident that the strike was not a popular one among the Dublin working classes, thousands of whom were threatened with unemployment by the virtual closing of the port. Among all classes of trades a like feeling of relief was evident. The Metropolitan Cattle Market will be held to-day, and, although it will doubtless be adversely affected by the trouble, those engaged in the cattle trade expressed profound satisfaction at the turn that events had taken. It is generally anticipated among the Dublin traders that the cross-Channel cattle and live-stock shipments will be resumed to-day.

On inquiry at the shipping offices last evening, it was learned that no definite arrangements had been made for the resumption of the sailings to-day, but that a definite announcement on the point might be forthcoming later. Mr. David Barry, Manager of the British and Irish Steam Packet Company and affiliated lines, was not in Dublin yesterday, but it is understood that the result of the Mansion House meeting was made known to him by telegraph. A telegram was sent to Cork immediately after the meeting by Alderman O'Brien, stating that the Dublin seamen and firemen had decided to resume work immediately on the appeal of the Lord Mayor.

THE DUNDALK SEAMEN'S STRIKE.

The strike of the crews of the Dundalk and Newry boats still continues, and all grades in the offices have received notice. At a meeting of the directors of the Steam Packet Company held in Dundalk yesterday, Mr. Peter Hughes, Chairman of the Dundalk Urban Council, attended on behalf of the seamen and firemen now on strike. Sir Thomas Callan Macardle, K.B.E., presided, and the directors explained that the matter was one entirely for a maritime board, and that any negotiations would have to be conducted through the Shipping Federation, of which they were members.

THE SEAMEN'S STRIKE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I wish to notify the public through the columns of your paper that at my invitation (unsought) the members of the Seamen's and Firemen's Union who are at present on strike attended at the Mansion House this morning. The men, although maintaining the attitude they have already taken up, on an especial appeal from me in the interests of the city and the country generally and owing to the cruel, perilous period through which we are passing, consented to return to work at once.

It would be ungracious for me and the position I hold if I did not tender to the men, on behalf of the citizens and myself, my sincere thanks for the attitude they have now taken.—Yours, etc.,

L. O'NEILL, Lord Mayor.

Mansion House, Dublin,

THE COAL SITUATION.

EFFECT OF MINERS' BALLOT.

SERIOUS DEVELOPMENTS FEARED.

The Press Association understands that the complete returns were not before the Executive yesterday, and the aggregate totals will not be definitely known until to-day. The members of the Executive were very grave on leaving the Conference last night, and the impression prevails that another serious crisis is developing, not only from the national standpoint, but from the point of view of the Miners' Federation. There will, undoubtedly, be a big difference of opinion as to the policy to be pursued at to-day's Delegate Conference, and the attitude of the Nottinghamshire and South Wales districts indicates a danger of a split in the Federation. It is still considered that a strike will not be forced without further effort to find a way out. The Conference may authorise the Executive to meet the Government again to-day. If there is an interview at the Board of Trade in the afternoon the Conference will probably adjourn until to-morrow, deferring its action in regard to the strike notices, which expire on Saturday, unless further suspended.

Sir Robert Horne is back in London, and is prepared to meet the miners' leaders if they ask for an interview.

LEADERS' ADVICE REJECTED.

At the delegate meeting of the Nottinghamshire Miners' Association Council yesterday, the majority of those present refused to agree to the recommendation of the officials, that there should be a delay in acting upon the strike notices pending an opportunity being given of testing the feeling of the men on the question of the acceptance of an impartial tribunal. The meeting decided against further delay, and the delegates to the National Federation meeting were instructed to act accordingly.

Although official figures are not available, it is certain that the South Wales ballot will show a majority against acceptance of the "datum line" offer of well over 123,000. The latest figures are:—For acceptance, 20,141; against, 142,802. One South Wales colliery voted for the owners' offer—namely, Celrbedyn, where ten voted for and two against. The result of the voting in North Wales was—For acceptance, 2,231; against, 10,822. In Dean Forest about 5 per cent. voted for acceptance.

ENGLISH POLICE RECRUITS FOR IRELAND.

Further reinforcements for the Auxiliary Police Force in Ireland arrived in Dublin yesterday morning. The incoming London and North-Western line steamer Menevia conveyed a party of about 150 from Holyhead to the North Wall, and these recruits were, soon after arrival, motored from the Port to their Depôt.

DISTURBANCES IN LONDONDERRY.

Exciting scenes occurred in Carlisle road, Londonderry, on Tuesday night, shortly before "Curfew." A Unionist youth, when on his way home, was attacked and sustained a severe injury to his head. His assailants then fled into Bridge street, and a large crowd quickly congregated, some stone-throwing and bottle-throwing resulting. A party of youths also stopped a number of pedestrians and demanded if they were Sinn Feiners, several people being roughly handled. Some revolver firing resulted in three bullets piercing the ice-cream shop window at the head of Bridge street. As "Curfew" hour was approaching soldiers from an adjoining military post arrived, and the streets rapidly became deserted. Shortly afterwards a "Curfew" military cycle patrol arrived on the scene, remaining in possession of the street for a considerable time.

The United Victuallers' Defence League, in a Council meeting at Burton-on-Trent yesterday, declared that the Government were acting in defiance of constitutional precedent in continuing the existence of the Central Control Board, whose powers ought to be immediately annulled. Effective organisations were called for to meet the Local Veto and Prohibitionist movement.

THE REAL IRISH QUESTION.

BISHOP'S PLEA FOR UNITED EDUCATION.

THE CAST-IRON BARRIERS.

(FROM OUR REPORTER.)

WATERFORD, WEDNESDAY.

An adjourned meeting of the Diocesan Synod of Waterford and Lismore was held in the Protestant Hall, Waterford, to-day, the Right Rev. Dr. Miller, Bishop of Cashel, Emly, Waterford, and Lismore, presiding.

Holy Communion was administered in the Cathedral prior to the meeting. The attendance was not as large as usual, owing to curtailed train facilities.

The Synod was opened by the reading of Scripture and prayer by the Archdeacon.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President, in the course of his address, referred to the financial position of the clergy, and said that the Diocesan Council were able to report that there were ten incumbencies of £400 per annum and upwards, whilst all those remaining, with one exception, were over £300 per annum, the majority being at least £350. So far as their funds would permit, they were offering grants from the Diocesan Stipend Fund, provided the corresponding assessment was made by the parish. It was most helpful and stimulating to be able to report that their people were responding most willingly. In one case the parishioners had made up £100 per annum, and in several others £30 per annum. They were now contemplating the raising of a sufficient capital sum to place to the credit of the Diocesan Stipend Fund, the interest on which, with the corresponding assessment, would bring all the remaining parishes up to a minimum of £400 per annum. They were all keenly interested in Church reform, but they expressed the earnest hope that the General Synod would be slow to interfere with any of the Cathedrals whose names were an evidence of the antiquity of the Irish Church. They must also be prepared to protest against a too sweeping reduction in canonries. With decreasing numbers in their clergy, they were willing to make a reduction, but they pleaded that it should be done only after the most careful and sympathetic consideration, and with the possibility before them that their numbers might increase. The name "Church of Ireland" should make the General Synod to hesitate to adopt a policy which would certainly indicate a want of faith in the future of their Church. Speaking of the future of the Church of Ireland led them to consider the present condition of the country.

DENOMINATIONALISM IN IRELAND.

Continuing, the President said that they all deeply deplored the utter lawlessness which prevailed everywhere, the undoubted evidences that Christianity was no longer a restraining influence amongst them. It was customary to blame politicians; but, to a man like him, who was not a politician, it was evident that the politicians had repeatedly asked Irishmen as a whole to come to terms amongst themselves, and that they failed to do so. Hatred, distrust, and consequent disunion prevailed in Ireland, and it was their duty to try to see the evil clearly and to find the remedy. If Irishmen agreed, they could have whatever form of government they desired. They did not agree, and who was to blame? The time had come for plain speaking. The outstanding fact to be first grasped was that denominationalism had got such a hold of Irishmen generally that they had mistaken it for Christianity. Every clergyman was intent upon keeping a grip of his own children. The child was in a denominational atmosphere all his school life, in his home life, in his University life, and the effect was seen when he entered upon his public life. To anyone who knew anything of England it was quite evident that the Nonconformist dreaded and distrusted the English Church, and the same cause was at the root here. The conclusion was perfectly obvious, that peace could not be permanently secured in Ireland until Irishmen broke down the cast-iron barriers of denominationalism and consented to be educated together. In no country in the world had the clergy of all denominations more zeal for the advancement of their faith, but yet it seemed to him beyond question that they all had made a mistake in insisting upon the control of secular education. Was it not possible to adopt a scheme of education which would preserve religious interests and yet enable all their young people to grow up together knowing and trusting each other? If it were not possible, then they might drop altogether talking of settling the Irish question and continue as they were. Every true-hearted Irishman longed and prayed for peace, and at present every true-hearted Irishman was willing to consider any proposal which had this aim in view.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

The Irish question, proceeded the President, was not one merely for politicians: it was not merely for leaders in commerce; it could, and would, be settled if ecclesiastics and leaders of public opinion in Ireland of all denominations met and agreed upon a scheme which would abolish denominational control of schools, whilst preserving the right of all clergymen to instruct the children of their denomination in the doctrines of their faith. If this method were put into operation and tried for five years, there would be an end of strife, and Ireland would not present to the world, as she did now, a caricature of Christianity. The Northern, with his rugged individuality, with his shrinking dread of institutional religion, was not the brutal bigot that he was said to be. The Northern had proved, from his own experience, that he could derive comfort and strength from his prayers and from his mystical creed. He knew little of Divine institutions, of Apostolic succession, and dreaded unspeakably any domination even from those of his own creed. The Southern, with his intense devotion, his veneration for his religious teachers, his unshakable belief in a Divinely appointed Church, was the opposite extreme to the Northern mystic, and so, as ever, temperament, directed and controlled by denominationalism, divided Ireland. If all ecclesiastics agreed to stand out of the immediate control of secular education, the Northman would have the only evidence which would be satisfactory to him that he was to be left free to worship God uncontrolled. He would also then begin to see that there were other people in Ireland who preferred to be controlled and directed in their religious life. The Southern would then begin to see the mentality of the Northern, that there were fine qualities in his brother Irishman, and both would, in time, work the country together.

MODERATE MEN IN SINN FEIN.

There was good reason to believe that moderate men in Sinn Fein were anxious to find a via media. They saw clearly that even a Republic in Ireland would be worthless without a united country behind it, and that could never happen so long as the most prosperous part of the country was left out and was strong enough to remain out. Lord Grey and Mr. Asquith would be well advised to leave Ireland alone. They failed, and failed miserably, when they had power to deal with the question. They knew nothing whatever of the country, nor could they enter into the minds and outlook of the people; and their wild talk and wilder remedies could only end in making a settlement more difficult. Reconciliation and unity were the watchwords for the future. Irishmen of all classes and creeds looked forward to being happy and united in Heaven; therefore, the sooner that they began to practise union upon earth the better. No one Christian Church had a monopoly of the road to Heaven. In conclusion, the President said that they who loved the old country, so full of fragrant memories to every true-hearted Irishman, would join in humble prayer and say "God save Ireland." (Applause.)

AMALGAMATION OF PARISHES.

The following recommendations, with others, of the Amalgamation of Parishes Committee were adopted:—That the Parish of Whitechurch be joined to Cahir Parish; that the Parish of Woodrooffe be severed from Cahir Union and served by a curate-in-charge; and that the Curacy of Cahir be discontinued.

LAW REPORTS.

CO. TYRONE MATRIMONIAL SUIT.—In the King's Bench Division, Dublin, yesterday, before Mr. Justice Dodd, for the Vacation Judge, in the matrimonial case of Elizabeth Brady against her husband, James Brady, Mr. Williamson, K.C., with whom was Mr. Maguire (instructed by Mr. E. J. Malone), for the petitioner, applied for an order that the respondent be compelled to pay his wife alimony pendente lite. The wife was petitioning for restitution of conjugal rights. The parties were married at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Highgate, London, on the 24th June, 1915, and there were two children of the marriage. The respondent, according to affidavits that were read, carries on an extensive business as a shopkeeper at Kilwogan, near Stewartstown, Co. Tyrone, and in addition to that he had a farm of forty acres well stocked, out of which, according to petitioner, he made about £400 a year. His takings in the shop were from £70 to £100 a week. The petitioner said that she was in an extremely delicate state of health from nervous breakdown, and was without any means of subsistence, having received nothing from her husband since last June. The petitioner, under these circumstances, asked for £5 a week alimony, and the husband had offered £5 a month. The petitioner was a nurse in London before her marriage, and was now living with her brother at Moneymore, Co. Derry. The respondent replied that he had not the means imputed to him by his wife, and that he could not afford to pay her £5 a week. The judge made an order that the respondent shall pay the petitioner £2 10/- per week as from the 18th September. Mr. Laverty (instructed by Mr. J. P. Harris) appeared for the respondent.

SEQUEL TO CARD-PLAYING.—In the case of Henry P. McEntaggart, of Roebuck Grove, Dundrum, Co. Dublin, against William J. Reade, of Kenilworth road, Dublin, Mr. James Henry (instructed by Mr. H. D. Draper) appeared for the plaintiff. The motion before the Court, he said, was for final judgment for £67 4/-, which the plaintiff claimed to be due to him from the defendant. The defendant gave the plaintiff a cheque on the Royal Bank of Ireland for the amount mentioned, dated 5th August last, and that cheque was dishonoured by non-payment. Since the service of the writ, and since notice of the application for final judgment had been served, an affidavit on behalf of the defendant had been put in simply pleading the Gaming Act in defence. Under these circumstances counsel asked that the application be adjourned in order that he might meet this point, and counsel his client. Mr. Serjeant Hanna, who, with Mr. Rearden (instructed by Messrs. Bowles and French) appeared for the defendant, said that Mr. Henry could have had an opportunity since the previous day of finding out from his client whether the defence was a good or a bad one. It was not a betting transaction, but one that arose out of card-playing. Mr. Reade had lost about £600. Mr. Henry replied that he was not stating anything that was not in the affidavit. What the serjeant had stated was not in an affidavit. Mr. Serjeant Hanna said that the facts were entirely within the knowledge of Mr. McEntaggart. The claim arose out of a very peculiar transaction. The defendant had put in an affidavit stating that it was a gaming transaction, and that there was no legal consideration. Mr. Justice Dodd said that the defendant could not be much prejudiced by an adjournment. It was a question of debt or no debt, and it was desirable that the Court should have the full facts. He, therefore, allowed the motion to stand till the second day of next sittings.

DUBLIN CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

The Right Hon. the Recorder of Dublin resumed the business of the Criminal Sessions at the Courthouse, Green street, yesterday. Mr. Carrigan, K.C. (instructed by the Chief Crown Solicitor), prosecuted on behalf of the Crown.

Patrick Fortune, who had 31 previous convictions against him, was sentenced to three years' penal servitude on a charge of breaking and entering a house in Parliament street and stealing thirty pairs of boots.

Mary Farrell, who had 54 convictions against her, was sent to jail for nine months' hard labour for window breaking.

James Kelly, with 16 convictions against him, including one of five years' penal servitude, was sentenced to 12 months with hard labour for housebreaking.

Michael Leonard, against whom there were 37 convictions, was ordered to be imprisoned for 12 months' hard labour for breaking two panes of glass, valued at £15 10/-, the property of Messrs. Kidd, Nassau street.

Walter Leatherhead and Albert Morris, private soldiers in the Lancashire Fusiliers, were each sentenced to four months' imprisonment with hard labour on a charge of breaking and entering a shop in North King street and stealing a bicycle and other articles.

Philip Monahan, an old man, who was in jail 33 times, was sentenced to 20 months' imprisonment with hard labour for window smashing in Grafton street.

James Walsh, a middle-aged man, was charged with having on August 2nd broken into the shop 4 Bachelor's Walk and stolen a quantity of serge. The prisoner, who had several convictions against him, was found guilty, and sentenced to three years' penal servitude.

STRANGE BIGAMY CASE.

Mary Bracken, a middle-aged woman, pleaded guilty to an indictment of having at St. Catherine's Church, Meath street, Dublin, bigamously married Francis Farrell, her former husband being then alive. Mr. Green, for the defendant, said that she was married in May, 1911, but her husband shortly afterwards deserted her and sent her small sums of money at irregular intervals. The husband was also prosecuted for bigamy in Scotland, and defendant had to seek shelter in the Union. The Recorder stated that the woman had been told practically to go on the streets, and in England she could have got a divorce. He directed her to be put back until later as the case was an exceptional one, but in future cases he would inflict a substantial punishment.

DUBLIN UNION.

WARNING TO RATHMINES.

At the meeting of the Dublin Board of Guardians yesterday, Mr. M. O. Foley, Chairman, presiding,

The Clerk announced that the accounts showed a debit balance of £27,016 9/11.

The Chairman said that, as they would have seen by the newspapers this week, the Rathmines Urban Council had refused to pay their portion of the rates to the County Council for some reason or another. The Guardians had nothing to carry on the Union with except the money they got from the County Council and the Corporation. Already the Government had withheld £23,000 from the Corporation, and they in turn would withhold that sum from the Dublin Guardians. The Rathmines Council having refused to pay the County Council, that body would in turn deduct this money from the Guardians. The consequence of this would be that the Guardians would have to stop outdoor relief in Rathmines, close the dispensaries, and dispense with the services of the medical officers, and further, they would have to exclude from that Boardroom the representatives from Rathmines. (Applause.) They all knew that the Dublin Guardians did not want to take any such drastic steps with regard to those Guardians, but they would see that they had no right whatever to say how the Guardians were to spend money which they were not helping them to get. They would see that it was not possible for the Guardians to pay over £200 weekly in Rathmines under these circumstances. The amount of the cost of relief and dispensaries and medical officers was for the half-year about £6,000.

Miss O'Connor said that she would move that the Guardians give no relief in Rathmines. They had no right or claim to it when they would not pay. She also moved that the Rathmines Guardians be expelled.

Mrs. Evans said that she had been appointed to look after the poor, but she would not remain there on sufferance as an intruder.

In reply to Mr. L. O'Toole, the Clerk stated that no intimation had been received from the County Council that they would refuse to pay. It was understood that Rathmines would only pay by cheque, and that they would not pay to Mr. Lawless, paymaster to the County Council.

Mr. O'Toole said that they would get the money all right.

On the motion of Mr. Beck it was decided to refer the matter to the Finance Committee to report within a fortnight.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

IRISH IDEALS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The letter of Mr. Jellett to The Times which you notice to-day possesses, of course, that measure of truth that you would expect from a Unionist stalwart. It will impress many by its apparent logic of facts, and blind them to what is the real issue. Granted that his party has occasionally helped to secure of late years some material benefits for our country—though, if my memory serves me aright, they resisted long and bitterly the earlier movements. These tardy, but beneficent, concessions, whencesoever they sprang, have done their work in helping to create a new Ireland. The material advantages they conferred have afforded strength and opportunity for a new life of thought, aspiration, and effort out of the prison-house of desolation in which the mere Irish lay.

Ireland is awake and on its feet, and the movement of to-day is far more a spiritual than a material or economic one—spiritual, not in the religious or moral sense, but in that of "the secular spiritual gifts," as Professor Pollard calls them in the Pilgrim. These are, in our case, the value of human personality, freedom, self-reliance, and self-government as the essentials to secure national development. That is why so many young people of all creeds are in (so often secret) sympathy with Ireland's cause. They deplore the crimes of violence and cruelty by which the agitation is attended, and long for the success of a saner Government; yet they hold fast to their faith that not in Unionism, but in self-government, is to be found the way to realise a noble ideal.—Yours, etc.,

WILLIAM CRAWFORD.

FARM LABOUR IN COUNTY DUBLIN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I have received many enquiries regarding the delay in threshing in County Dublin this season, and I consider that the public should be made aware that the delay is due to a labour dispute. During the harvest of 1919 casual labourers were paid 12s. per day of ten hours, and at the beginning of this year's harvest the County Dublin Farmers' Association agreed to pay them 14s. per day of 9½ hours. Last year permanent farm labourers were paid 37s. for a 60-hour week; this year they are paid 43s. for a 54-hour week, and the increase which was offered to casual labourers is in proportion to the increase granted to permanent men. The permanent men, who are naturally more efficient, are in receipt of 7s. 2d. per day, and the casual labourers are offered 14s. per day for threshing. The permanent men work 9½ hours each day (except on Saturday), and it is necessary that the casual labourers should also work 9½ hours. The casual labourers are demanding 18s. for a nine-hour day, and have refused arbitration. In some districts where the refusal of the men was not effective the work is being done for 14s. per day, and a good deal of the corn in these districts has been threshed.

The grain harvest in County Dublin is about 30 per cent. worse than last year. The grain harvest in other parts of the world is considerably better than last year. Consequently the County Dublin farmers are likely to suffer a severe set-back in the market as compared with last year. They cannot pay more than the amount offered, and feel that, in making a generous offer and straining a point in favour of arbitration, they are entitled to the support of the public.—Yours, etc.,

A. V. MACDONOGH, Secretary,
County Dublin Association of the Irish Farmers' Union.

FEIS CEOIL ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING.

Mr. R. C. de Versan, K.C., presided last evening at the annual general meeting of the Feis Ceoil Association, which was held at 37 Molesworth street, Dublin.

The report of the Committee, which was read by the Registrar, Mr. C. W. Wilson, dealt with the results of the twenty-fourth Feis Ceoil, held in May last. The balance sheet showed a profit of £47. The various adjudicators' reports were submitted. Mr. Gregory Hast stated that the quality of the voices as a whole and the excellence of the interpretation of the songs performed showed an advance on that of the previous festival. Several unusually fine voices came forward, particularly amongst the men. He recommended the new competitors to work seriously, as with proper study they should go far. The weak spot on the whole vocal side of the Feis was the sight reading. According to Mr. Marmaduke Barton's report, there was abundance of talent amongst the pianoforte competitors. The general excellence of the playing showed that Dublin possessed teachers capable of artistically cultivating gifts of an unusually promising quality. The reading at sight was, on the whole, very weak. It was a pity that so little attention was given to this subject. Professor Robert O'Dwyer reported on the two collections received of unpublished Irish airs, and gave no first prize, but awarded second prize to the No. 2 collection, the best of which was "O'Connell's Reel." Mr. Hamilton Harty wrote stating that he had carefully examined the compositions sent to him, and regretted that they were so few in number and not very distinguished in quality. Dr. Terry and Mr. Arthur Catterall had not forwarded their reports in time for the meeting.

Rev. George O'Neill, S.J., in proposing the adoption of the report, expressed general agreement with the reports of the adjudicators. The Feis Ceoil had a right to insist on a high standard of sight reading. That was necessary if they were to have a sincere development of music in Dublin.

Dr. Holmes Denham, in seconding the report, which was unanimously adopted, said that he thought that the defects of pronunciation referred to by Mr. Hast were not quite as bad here as across the water. It was absolutely essential, if music was to be cultivated effectively in Dublin, to have a spacious public hall. As regards unpublished Irish airs, he wondered whether they could carry on that competition any longer, as after twenty-four years there could hardly be any more unpublished airs left.

Miss Edith Mortier was elected hon. secretary; Mr. W. P. Geoghegan and Captain H. M. FitzGibbon were appointed hon. treasurers; and Mr. T. M. Gerrard was elected hon. solicitor; while Mr. James Duncan and Dr. J. J. Purser were elected as scrutineers of the ballot for the Committee.

The Chairman, in acknowledging a vote of thanks, expressed the view that they had every reason to be pleased with their position. It was gratifying, after twenty-four years' existence, and meeting such an expenditure as £125 for the hire of the Antient Concert Rooms, to find a credit balance of £47.

DUBLIN BUILDING TRADE STRIKE.

The strike in the Dublin building trade, in which upwards of 4,000 men are involved, presented no new development yesterday, and, on inquiry at Liberty Hall, it was stated that there were no evidences of a possible early settlement. Several hundreds of the strikers have left Dublin to seek work in cross-Channel cities.

CLONMEL TOWN CLERK HEAVILY FINED.

Mr. Dudley White, K.C., acting for the County Court Judge at Clonmel Quarter Sessions, fined the Town Clerk of Clonmel £50 for not attending to assist him at the revision of the jurors' lists. The officials of other public bodies, with the exception of the Clonmel Corporation, were present. His Honour stated that the Town Clerk was not only served, but got personal notice, and he had evidence that he would not attend.

RENEWED DISORDERS IN DERRY PRISON.

There was a renewal of the disorder in Derry Jail yesterday, when some of the prisoners again became very refractory. The services of the police and military were requisitioned, and the trouble then subsided. The police remained on duty in the prison. A number of additional warders are being employed.

BRITISH SCHOONER'S EXCITING EXPERIENCE.

Our Queenstown Correspondent states:—The three-masted British schooner, Marion G. Douglas, bound from North Port (Nova Scotia) to Garston, with a cargo of timber, has barely managed to reach this harbour in a battered condition. The captain, officers, and crew had a terrible experience, and endured many hardships, and at one time had grave doubts of ever reaching port, so bad was the weather. The schooner carried a deck load of timber, and when, on the 3rd inst., she encountered a violent gale, it became necessary to heave her to in order to save it.

THE PRINTING TRADE DISPUTE.

A further conference was held in London yesterday regarding the printing trade wages dispute, and at the close the following agreed statement was issued:—"The conference was attended by the whole of the Administrative Council of the Workers' Federation, and, as a result of the discussion, the employers made an offer of an increase in wages of 5s. per week to all male adult workers and 2s. to all qualified adult women workers, with a proportionate increase to learners. This offer the unions' representatives felt themselves unable to accept, and they made counter-proposals which the employers were unable to entertain. The employers thereupon suggested that the matter should be referred to some form of mediation which would be mutually acceptable."

SALE OF GOSFORD PARK.—A small Newry syndicate (for whom Mr. A. Cromie, solicitor, acted) has purchased Gosford Castle and demesne, with some surrounding townlands, and the ground rents of Richhill and Markethill. LEGAL BUSINESS IN TIPPERARY COURTS.—There are only 90 cases for hearing at Clonmel Quarter Sessions, mostly undefended. Some years ago cases listed for this court numbered as many as 600. Petty Sessions Courts have little or nothing to do. The Clonmel Borough Court yesterday lasted only a short time, the business consisting of prosecutions for not having lights on vehicles, and the signing of public licences.

THEFT BY DERRY SOLDIERS.—At Derry Crown Sessions on Tuesday four soldiers of the Queen's Regiment pleaded guilty to stealing £68 from the hotel of Mr. Geo. Leeke, J.P., Magilligan. A lieutenant said that the prisoners had good characters in the Army. They promised to pay back the amount that had not been recovered, one of them stating that he burned £11 when he heard that the police were looking for him. His Honor allowed the prisoners out on their own recognisances.

COMPENSATION AWARDS IN CO. LOUTH.—At Dundalk Quarter Sessions yesterday, before Judge Green, K.C., Mrs. Brennan, Omeath, was awarded £1,500 compensation for the loss of her husband, Constable Thomas Brennan, who was killed in an attack upon the police in Dundalk in August. A decree for £840 was given for the burning of a row of houses, including the police barrack, in the village of Louth. The people of the village were at devotions on the evening of the fire, and they were held up by men armed with revolvers, while oil and petrol was commandeered and the buildings fired.

DAIL EIREANN AWARD CRITICISED.—At the last meeting of the Carrickmacross Guardians an award from Dail Eireann was submitted granting increases to the medical officers of the board. The Chairman (Mr. Martin) said that it was a mistake to have it submitted at all. After further discussion, it was agreed to leave the matter over until the first Thursday in December.

THE LATE LORD CHIEF BARON'S "CUTENESS."—During the hearing of a case at Castleblayney Quarter Sessions affecting the interests of three members of a family named Martin, whose father died intestate, possessed of a farm, His Honor County Court Judge Johnston said that it would be an easy matter to ascertain the shares in which the parties were each entitled were it not for the "cuteness" of the decision of the late Lord Chief Baron Palles, in distinguishing between shares which descend as "joint tenancies" and "tenancies in common." His Honor, in referring the matter to the Clerk of the Peace for inquiry and report, said that that official would have "a nice job."

£400 A YEAR FOR IRISH TEACHERS.—Mr. S. Fahy and Mr. P. Conroy were appointed whole time teachers of Irish for North and South Kildare at a meeting of Joint Technical Committee, held in Athy, Very Rev. Canon Mackey, P.P., V.F., presiding. It was mentioned at the meeting that the salary, war bonus, and expenses of the whole time Irish teachers will amount to over £400 per annum each. A deputation from the Gaelic League, who have a teacher other than Mr. Fahy for North Kildare, attended in favour of their nominee. Mr. Carroll (Labour) said Mr. Fahy had been hunted like a hare through the country, and now the Gaelic League wanted to hunt him out of his position.

Ernest R. Despard, Tank Corps, Somme, 27th September, 1917; Private A. Wilkinson, Inniskilling Fusiliers, March, 1918. Erected by their fellow-members of this congregation." (REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY.

Stocks opened irregular, and declined on selling of Copper issues, this being induced by new financing by the Anaconda Copper Company, the poor trade conditions, and rumours that dividends will have to be cut. The market then rallied under buying of representative Railroads and Specialities, notably Oils, United Fruit, Sugars, Equipments, Reading Common, New York Central, and Texas and Pacific. The closing was firm.

NATIONAL "CHILD" CAMPAIGN.

In connection with the National "Child" Campaign, which is being held this week in Dublin, a large company of medical men and others was entertained by Dr. H. T. Bewley, F.R.C.P.I., to breakfast in Kidd's Restaurant, Nassau street, yesterday morning, when a discussion took place on the subject of "National Efficiency" in relation to alcoholic drinks.

Dr. Bewley, who presided, said that the question of what effect alcoholism had in regard to increasing or diminishing the efficiency of the nation was an important one. The time of stress and competition was really now beginning, and it seemed to him that the time was coming when the struggle for existence would be even greater.

Dr. J. T. Wigham, who opened the discussion, referred to the work done by the Commission appointed by the National Control Board, whose report had recently been issued, and also to the experimental work done under the auspices of the Medical Research Committee to determine the amount of alcohol in the blood which had an effect on the nerve centres, and said that one wondered whether prohibition in the United States would have an effect on the efficiency of that great nation. If it had any effect in increasing the national efficiency they were, considering the enormous resources of that country and the way in which its people worked, up against a formidable proposition. They wanted to know whether they could do anything to increase the efficiency of their people by any means such as the prohibition movement in the United States. The drinking of alcoholic drinks, as worked out by the Commission, showed that it added in general to the causes of inefficiency.

Alderman Hubbard Clark, J.P., conveyed the thanks of the Band of Hope Union to Dr. Bewley for inviting them there, and spoke of the work carried on by the Union in the Dublin district.

Dr. Crofton said that on this question they had to compare nations that were temperate, and yet not total abstainers, with nations that were now total abstainers, such as America. Germany and France were efficient nations, and yet their people drank alcohol, but it was weak alcohol. There was a great deal to be said for the control of alcoholic drinks in the sense that they ought to contain only a definite maximum amount of alcohol, and the making illegal of drinks that contained more than that percentage.

Dr. Law said that there was no doubt about the evils of excessive alcoholism. The greatest danger was the man who thought he was a moderate drinker, and really was not. He was a danger to himself and to the community. He did not see eye to eye with those who desired national prohibition. It led to secret drinking, which was the worst class of drinking.

Dr. Webb agreed that they must inculcate the advantages of temperance in the children, but she thought that they must begin before the child was of an age to have any desire for alcohol at all.

Dr. Wigham, in closing the discussion, also tendered thanks to Dr. Bewley for his kindness in bringing them together to debate that important subject.

Dr. Ellis Powell, editor of the Financial News, has resigned his editorship of that paper owing to differences of opinion with the Board of directors.

This clever actress, famous for her matchless success in Sir J. M. Barrie's plays, "What every Woman knows," "Wendy" in his immortal "Peter Pan," writes:

"I cannot speak too highly of the assistance I have derived from Phosferine throughout my strenuous stage career. For the greater part of the year I am playing every evening, with the usual matinees, and invariably rehearsing during mornings, and as a consequence, such arduous days strain one's nerves to breaking point, if it were not that Phosferine has always proved an unfailing help and restorative at these times when I feel the most pressing need of its assistance. On my forthcoming flying matinee tour, I am visiting about 32 towns, and in addition to the usual performances, rehearsals during the mornings will be necessary, but I have every confidence that Phosferine will enable me to cope with the strenuous time ahead, as I have the happiest experience of its beneficial and invigorating effect on an overtaxed system."

This highly popular leading lady expresses the most grateful appreciation for the unfailing efficacy of Phosferine in upholding and increasing her powers of endurance—Phosferine ensures that she can always command the vital force to perpetuate her distinguished representations.

"Andrews' keeps you right . . . ."

Good Health & Andrews'

are frequent Partners. Rarely will you find a Tin of Andrews' in the Home which lacks a goodly share of Health and Cheer.

When the years of youthful Games have passed, the continuity of Health is no longer left to chance. Andrews' is the choice of countless thousands who study the continuity of their Health.

It's no good locking the stable door when the Horse has gone. While one has Health is the time to look after it; and in helping to maintain the Health of the healthy, Andrews' has become the National Safeguard.

Andrews' cleanses inside, gently, pleasantly, but so insistently. When the dull and lazy, languid, surly mood takes hold of you, the cause is an internal condition which Andrews' will quickly put to rights. Use it thus:—

Take a spoonful in a glass of water in the early morning for two or three days . . . just until you are yourself once more. But take care you get the genuine Andrews'.

IMPORTED FLOUR ORDER REVOKED.

The Ministry of Food announce that the Food Controller has issued an Order revoking, as on October 17th, 1920, the directions relating to imported flour, dated May 28th, 1920, under the Manufacture of Flour (Bread) Act, 1918. Imported flour may, after October 17th, be sold by retail, or used, whether mixed with home-milled flour or not.

FERMOY HORSE FAIR.—The last quarterly horse fair for this year was held in Fermoy on Tuesday in Mr. J. J. Broderick's Inch field. The attendance of horses was well up to the mark, and among them were some really good animals of the hunter type. Buying, however, was very slow, consequent, it appears, on the fact that only two Northern buyers were doing business, and also on the lack of export trade.

FINANCIAL NEWS

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

MOSTLY DEPRESSED. CITY STEAM AND BURKES WANTED. RAILS, GUINNESS, TEXTILES, DUNLOPS, TOBACCO, AND OILS LOWER.

The Stock markets yesterday afternoon were with very few exceptions dull and drooping under selling pressure induced by the existing state of unrest, which continues to destroy confidence and influences realisations where opportunity offers. The Funds were weaker again on balance. Banks marked time, but Guinness were on offer, and Marconis were stagnant. Home Rails were flat generally, but while "Wicklow" Ord. fell, the Pref. rallied several points. City Steam appeared to close much stronger about 112 to 120 unofficially. Dunlops fell a little. Textiles and Tobaccos were lower, but in Oils, which gave way there was later a renewal of support at a recovery for Mexican Eagles. Burke shares continue to harden.

In the Funds, Consols fell ¼, and War Loan 5 p.c. ¼ to 45¾, and 84½ respectively. India 3½ p.c. rose yet another ¼ to 53¾. Belfast City Water 1936 Stock fell ¼ to 58.

Banks were quiet. Munster and Leinsters fell ¼ to 6¼, while Bank Stock at 180, and Royals at 9⅞ x.d. were steady.

In Breweries, Guinness Ord. fell ¼ to 31¾, but in City Steam the closing price appeared much stronger round about 115 unofficially.

Depression was again shown for Home Rails in nearly all cases. Dublin and South Eastern fell ⅛ to 15⅞, but an odd lot of the Pref. fetched 34, a rise of 3¾ on last marking. Great Southern shows no further change, but Midland Great Western fell ½ to 19½, and Great Northern Debs. 1½ to 58½ for an exceptional lot.

Trams closed steady. Dublin United Ord. repeated 6, while Provincial Ord. were held for an advance at 17s.

Alliance and Dublin Consumers Gas were wanted at last price, 82s. 6d.; but in Drapery issues, McBirneys fell 5s. 3d. to 4⅛.

Dunlop Rubber Ord. fell 6d. to 28s. 9d.

Among Manufacturing issues, British American Tobacco fell 4s. 4½d. to 70s. 7½d., and Imperial Tobacco 9d. to 51s. Coats closed 6d. weaker at 50s. 50s. 6d. nominally. Cottons fell 3d. to 37s. 3d., and Spinners 1s. 6d. to 47s. 3d. Lever Bros. 7 p.c. Pref. fell 3d. more to about 18s. 3d.

In Trading, etc., Burke Ord. rose 2s. 6d. to 75s., and the Pref. repeated 65s., and Findlater Pref. 15s.

Other business done included Mexican Eagle Oils at 11¼, ⅛, ⅛, the new 11⅛, and Shells 7⅛, against 11½ and 7⅛ respectively the previous day.

DATUM LINE IN STOCKS.
(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Though the datum line, the trouble in the sugar trade, and apprehension with regard to the growing depression in some important branches of industry were to some extent again in evidence in the Stock Exchange yesterday, they were less assertive than on the previous day. For instance, although the miners have rejected the coal-owners' offer of higher wages, based on increased production, Throgmorton street refuses to believe that the crisis will end in a strike. Indeed, there is every confidence that a way out of the difficulty will be found on terms satisfactory to all concerned. For the reasons enumerated, markets were decidedly better in tone, with a general tendency towards a recovery. Very few gilt-edged securities had any changes of note, but at the same time they denoted irregularity. Several stocks in the Home Railway Market displayed infirmity, and were marked down, Underground Electric issues being as conspicuous in the retrograde movement as they were in last week's advance. It was noticeable that the "Heavies" did not participate in the fall. A firm spot in the Corporation list was that of London 5¼ p.c., 1928, but for the rest this department was quiet. A better tone was exhibited among Colonial Government securities, though not all the day's changes were in favour of holders.

LONDON STOCKS DULL.
(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

The air of acute depression overshadowing the Stock Exchange on Tuesday was less marked yesterday, and, while it cannot be said that there was much return of confidence, the downward movement in prices appears to have been checked, at least for the time being. A certain amount of bidding for Oils was chiefly responsible for the rather better tendency all round. Still it was nothing to boast about, and the undertone was far from satisfactory. Scarcely anybody wanted to buy, while, in the event of a sale, it was often the case of taking what could be got in the way of a price. Esperanzas continued to receive attention, but Mexico of El Oros were unaffected. Bengal Irons reacted owing to a certain amount of disappointment with the dividend. Exceedingly little stock changed hands in the gilt-edged group, and prices, though little altered, were dull. War Loan Fives lost a fraction to 84⅛, but rallied to 84¾. Victory Bonds were 74.

FOREIGN BONDS WEAK.—So far as foreign Government bonds were concerned, the downward movement in French Fives and Fours made no further progress, the respective quotations being 47 and 37. Mexican Fives gave way to 59, and German Threes have eased off to 6. Portuguese Tobacco are better at 14. Cuban Fives were better, but the 4½ per cent. are lower.

Changes:—Falls—Brazilian Fours, 1 to 42; do. Funding, 1 to 66½; do. 5 per cent., 1 to 58; Mexican Fives, 1 to 69.

HOME RAILS WEAK.—There was selling of the Underground lines, the incomes giving way to 70¼, the £10 shares to 2¼, and the 1s. shares to 7s. Districts were fairly well maintained at 19¾. Elsewhere, North-Easterns receded to 78, but the other heavies remain firm at previous levels. Chathams were easier at 7½. North British Def. gave way to 11¼.

CANADIAN AND FOREIGN RAILS.—Canadian Pacifics and Grand Trunks were unchanged. Mexican Rails were ½ better at 18½. There was no alteration in the 1st and 2nd Pref. Argentine Rails were just a shade harder, "B.A.G.S." rising ½ to 71, but the other leading lines were unchanged. San Paulos were 1 lower at 137.

Changes:—Rises—B.A. Great Southern, ½ to 71; Entre Rios Pref. 1 to 62; Mexican Rails, ½ to 18½. Falls—Mexican Nat. 2nd Pref., ½ to 9; Bahia Blanca 2nd Debs., ½ to 53½; San Paulo, 1 to 137.

INDUSTRIALS STILL SAGGING.
(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Less business was recorded in the Miscellaneous and Industrial market yesterday, but the selling which had characterised the previous day's transactions had evidently not exhausted itself. Liquidation was in progress yesterday in the Shipping section, where Cunards were weak, and Furness Withy were also marked down. Vickers sank heavily in the Iron and Steel section. Textiles were out of favour. Dunlops and Courtaulds were maintained, but Brazilian Traction were easier. A decidedly heavy tone developed in the Iron and Steel section, where, as a consequence of a certain amount of liquidation and precautionary marking back, an all-round decline was recorded in the final lists. Vickers were well-nigh establishing a new low record, slumping to 21s. 6d. Guest Keen fell 1s. to 42s. 6d., and Cargo Fleet showed a similar loss at 17s. 6d. Armstrongs eased to 22s., and Ebbw Vale to 25s. Dorman Long shed 6d. at 24s. Cammell Laird lost 6d. at 17s. 6d., and Brunner Mond 9d. at 30s. 9d. Babcock and Wilcox shed ¼ at 2¼, but Bengal Iron, though ¼ down as compared with the overnight price, closed 2⅜ bid, after fluctuating between 2¼ and 2⅛ most of the day. The market was disappointed with the dividend. Slackness continued in the Brewery section, but Manbre Sugar and Malt came in for some bidding, which sent the price up to 33s. 6d. The company manufactures sugar specially for brewing purposes, and their report, which is due shortly, is expected to show highly satisfactory results. Allsopp Ord. fell a point to 76½, though the Pref. were unchanged at 65½. Hartlepool Papers were about the same at 22s. 3d., and Olives 17s. 9d., but, among Leather shares, Whitechurch recovered to 16s. Tobacco shares held their ground, B.A.T. continuing firm at 3½, and Imperials 50s. Among Motors, Rolls Royce were a shade off at 1⅛. Harper Bean Pref. were easier at 7s. 3d., but the Ord. were steady at 4s. Nitrates were, on the whole, neglected, but Tarapaca were offered down to 20s. 6d., which represented a drop of 1s. 6d. on the day. Textiles were again very dull, with declines invariably recorded where business was put through. Courtaulds, after easing slightly, finally kept the price at 7, and Amalgamated Cottons, after being 22s. 6d., closed firm at 23s. Calicos, however, were a weak spot at only 21s. 3d., or 9d. down, and Dyers receded ⅛. Listers were a flat market at 28s. Cellulose were 15s., and Crosses and Winkworths 15s. 9d. Among Stores, Whiteleys brightened up to 24s., and J. Barker were unchanged at 35s., but Harrods shed ⅛ at 2⅛. Caterers and Foodstuffs issues were mostly firm to harder, Maypoles, for instance, closing no worse at 11s., and J. Lyons and Van Den Berghs showing a gain of ⅛ at 4¼ and 2⅜ ex dividend, respectively. Among Miscellaneous Industrials, Dunlops, after dipping to 27s. 9d., finished unchanged at 28s. 3d. Cements eased to 25s. 9d., and Oil Cakes to 40s. 6d. De Treys finished with a loss of 9d. at 31s. 3d. British Aluminium fell ⅛ to 18s. 9d. ex dividend, and Salt Union 1s. to 24s. Underground issues were quite a firm market, prices closing practically unchanged. Business in the Shipping section was mainly on account of realisations, and prices accordingly receded. By the end of the day the list presented a gloomy appearance, further losses of 9d. in Cunards to 23s. 3d. being recorded, as well as an easier close in P. and O. Def. at 395. Royal Mails were still 104½. The interim dividend shows no change at 2½ per cent., less tax. Cairn Lines shed 6d. to 22s. 6d. ex dividend, and London American Maritime Trading lost 1s. at 26s. Indo-China Def. were reduced 4 points to 35. Among Gas securities, Imperial Continental eased to 39. Pekin were 6d. down in the Land group at 17s., and Duffs fell to 12s. 6d.

MINING MARKET QUIET.
(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Business in the Mining market was very quiet, and at the opening things were hesitating, dealers waiting to see whether there would be a renewal of the liquidation which has been in progress for several days past. Few realisations were effected, and in one or two directions there was a tendency to recover. Generally speaking, however, the market kept quiet, awaiting the result of the miners' ballot. As regards Kaffirs, an irregular tendency prevailed at the close. The price of gold remained at 117s. 6d. per fine ounce. The Rand return passed without notice. Rhodesians had a dull appearance, the chief feature being a further relapse in Falcons to 10s. sellers; a rally then took place to 10s. 6d. buyers, but the shares were still 1s. down on balance. Diamond shares maintained a steady front in the absence of a fresh liquidation from Paris. Tin relapsed £3 per ton to £256 5s., and on this falling market little interest was taken in Tin shares, a few of which were marked down however. West African Gold shares were easier, and Australians were idle. Business in Copper descriptions was of a very modest character, the feature being a further improvement in Arizona. Interest in Mexican issues has considerably subsided, and "Espers," after narrow fluctuations, again closed a little lower on balance. For some unexplained reason, Groville continued in request, and finished slightly better.

LEADING OIL SHARES BETTER.
(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

There was a fairly large turnover in the leading Oil Shares yesterday. At the outset the market had a none too rosy appearance, and further heavy Continental selling had to be faced, the shares chiefly suffering from this influence being Mexican Eagles, which were offered in large lines from Paris. Amsterdam continued to sell Royal Dutch, and sales was also encountered from the provinces during the early hours. The shares coming on the market, however, were once more absorbed without difficulty, and prices did not give way to any appreciable extent. After mid-day there was a cessation of Paris selling, and the provinces sent buying orders on a moderate scale. As we have already pointed out, the shares lately on offer have passed into strong hands, and are not likely to come out until prices stand at much higher levels, so that when, in the afternoon, a moderate demand sprang up, quotations quickly responded to the changed conditions, and on balance generally showed good recoveries. Mexican Eagles, which at one time were no better than 11⅛, rallied to 11½ buyers; Royal Dutch, after touching 63¼, improved to 65½; Shells left off at 7⅛ bid, having been 6⅞, and Burmahs, which opened at 8⅛, finished at 8⅛. Apart from a few specialities, active business was confined to the leaders. A fair amount of attention continued to be devoted to Trinidad issues, which on the whole maintained a steady tone, a trifling shrinkage in United British being the only quotable alteration. Anglo-Egyptian B were unaffected by the announcement of the production figures for the past week, the output being 3,260 tons, as against 2,863 tons for the preceding seven days, and other Egyptian descriptions kept steady. There was nothing of special interest in Russian or Rumanian issues. Rather less attention was paid to English Oilfields, the price of which weakened slightly, although it is anticipated that the progress report, which should be in the hands of shareholders very shortly, will prove to be of a satisfactory character. A strong and active feature was provided by Var Oil Shares, which, on the report that an important financial group has acquired a large interest in the concern, rose from 19s. 6d. to 23s. 1½d. buyers, finishing at 22s. 6d. The rest of the market presented nothing of special interest. Closing prices:—

RUBBER MARKET UNCERTAIN.
(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

The Rubber Share market was dull, though some shares were a little firmer on a rise in the price of the commodity to 1s. 6¼d. per lb. The market notes with satisfaction the expressed readiness of so many Dutch companies to adhere to the policy of reduction in output, and the hope is general that all the Dutch groups will come into line on this highly important point. The changes yesterday included a rise of 2s. 1½d. to 44s. 7½d. in Anglo-Dutch, a rise of 1s. 3d. in Kuala Lumpur to 60s. 7½d. Sempah advanced to 22s. 6d., a rise of 1s. 3d. Sennah, however, fell 3s. 1½d. to 23s. 1½d. Sungei Salak fell 3s. 1½d. to 62s. 6d., Toerangie 1s. 10½d. to 37s. 6d., Asahan 2s. to 20s. 6d., Java Amalgamated 1s. 3d. to 36s. 3d. There were many smaller changes on the day.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Weakness in the Stock Exchange markets is due to a chain of circumstances, in which the coal strike, the money position, the crisis in Havana, the financial difficulties in Amsterdam, and the situation in Ireland are all links. They combine to induce a feeling of caution in the attitude of the people who in the ordinary way would be buying stocks and shares on a fall. The absence of a "bear" account in the Stock Exchange adds another reason for the depression which spreads throughout the markets. Where sellers are eager and buyers are reluctant it is obvious enough that prices will have to give way materially, but in time they will certainly reach such levels as will appeal to prospective purchasers. What the Stock Exchange and its clients would like to know is how soon this state is likely to be reached.

The following information in regard to the development of the Descubridora vein on 5th level was received by cable from the Esperanza Mine yesterday:—"Developments, No. 5 Level, for week ending 7th October—North drive extended 10 feet, average width of reef is 19 inches, assaying, gold 11 dwts., silver 32 ozs. per ton of 2,000 lbs. At this point reef cuts out. South drive extended 15 feet, average width of reef is 5 inches assaying, gold 2 dwts., silver 8 ozs. per ton of 2,000lbs. No. 5 rise commenced adjacent (to) and south of cross-cut has risen 15 feet. Average width of reef is 19 inches, assaying, gold 4 ozs., silver 196 ozs. per ton of 2,000lbs. We have started to sink a winze in bottom of the level."

We are informed by the English, Scottish, and Australian Bank, Ltd., that their offer to buy the shares of the London Bank of Australia, Ltd., has been accepted to the extent of over 90 per cent., and that the fusion of those institutions is now assured.

The transfer books of R. and J. Dick's Preference Shares will be closed from 16th to 29th October (both days inclusive).

The Civtory Pipe Joint Co., Ltd., was registered as a private company on October 8th, with a capital of £100,000 in £1 shares, to acquire the exclusive rights to the benefit of an existing invention of Dr. H. S. Hele-Shaw, D.Sc., LL.D., F.R.S., and E. Tribe, relating to pipe joints, valve packing, and gauge glasses, together with the full benefit of certain pending applications for patents to develop the same, and to adopt an agreement with the vendors and the New Consolidated Goldfields, Ltd.

Cotton experienced another sharp decline at Liverpool yesterday (wires our Liverpool Correspondent), with no evidence of the trade being attracted by the lower levels. Both spot and future quotations are showing a steady daily decline, amounting frequently to nearly a penny per pound. Local authorities consider that, as a period of commodity price deflation has undoubtedly set in, it will be impossible for cotton to stand out alone; and as stocks are above normal the factor of supply is with the purchaser.

A correspondent draws attention to the fact that some people are being offered by circular French Credit National Premium Bonds around £16 for 500-franc bonds. The price at which these bonds should be sold through banks or otherwise is something like £9 10/-, and our correspondent should not pay more.

The Financial News says—The American group, negotiating for the purchase of the Arizona Copper Co., which has its headquarters in Edinburgh, have forwarded an offer which meets with the approval of the directors, and the transaction will be completed within a month or six weeks. A deputation of the directors visited New York in March to confer with the Americans, who requested six months for investigations at the mines, and for examination of the titles of the Arizona and New Mexican Railway, which is embraced in the sale. In the intervening period various estimates have been made of the price to be paid, but my information, which is semi-official, is that the American offer will prove highly satisfactory to the shareholders. The sum involved will be nearly £5,000,000.

Dr. Murray, M.P.,

"I regret that the Bill does not cover medicated wines. I rather wish that doctors would recommend to their patients a good wholesome full-bodied port wine."

Both doctors and the public are recognising this, hence the increasing demand for the

THE MONEY MARKET.
EASY CONDITIONS STILL PREVAIL.

Bank Rate (changed April 15th) .... 7 p.c.

Although it is recognised that the position is very uncertain, the Money market leans to the view that, with things as they are at present both in the monetary and commercial world, no change will be made in the Bank rate, at all events just now. Discount rates are quotably unaltered, but the banks are not buying short bills, and very little paper changes hands, so far as the discount brokers are concerned. Day-to-day money was fairly plentiful at 5 down to 4½ p.c., with balances over 4 p.c. As the subscriptions flow into January Treasury bills it is expected that the present ease will disappear.

Bank Rate (Discount) changed April 15, 1920				7%

Deposit allowance: Banks, at call				5%

The price of gold was unchanged at 117s. 6d. per oz. fine. A moderate amount available was again taken for America. Bar silver rose 2d. to 56¼d. per oz for cash, and 1¼d. to 55¾d. per oz. for forward delivery. The market had a firmer appearance altogether, and the rise was due to Indian bear covering. China is still doing nothing. The rupee further improved.

Movements in the foreign exchange were irregular. New York rose 1¼ cents on the day, and French and Belgian francs made a partial recovery. Paris cheque had a net fall of about 17 centimes and Brussels one of 20 centimes. Stockholm and Christiania were quoting more for sterling—particularly the former, and Copenhagen was just a shade better for London. Italian lire partially rallied after Tuesday's weakness. Holland was a little lower, but Switzerland moved in our favour. Among China rates, Shanghai came over a penny higher.

Paris, 53.05 to 53.15; Brussels, 50.30 to 50.40; Christiania, 25.35 to 25.45; Stockholm, 17.74 to 17.78; Copenhagen, 25.00 to 25.04; Switzerland, 21.88 to 21.93; Amsterdam, 11.25 to 11.30; Italy, 88.00 to 88.20; Madrid, sight, 24.18 to 24.23; Finland, 128 to 131; Berlin, 230 to 231; Rio, 12⅛d.; Bombay, 1s. 7¼d.; Calcutta, 1s. 7¼d.; New York, 3.49 to 3.49¼; Montreal, 3.83½ to 3.84½; Buenos Ayres, 56¾ to 57¼.

PROVINCIAL EXCHANGES.

FALL IN SHORTHORN PRICES.

Aberdeen was the Mecca of shorthorn breeders yesterday, when the first of a two days' sale was held. Prices showed a decided slackening compared with the phenomenal values ruling during the past five years. For 344 two-year-old heifers, yearling heifers, and heifer calves sold the average was £184 17/-, and the total amount realised was £145,144. Last year the average was £221. Quite a sound spirited trade was experienced. Many females were purchased for the Argentine, America, and South Africa. Top price was 1,800 guineas, given by Mrs. Stewart of Millhills, for a yearling heifer from Mr. Moubray.

RICE steady, but only retail sales passing. Rangoon bran dull. SPICE—Pepper slow. JUTE—Calcutta cables recorded a firmer market for loose and baled jute, with sellers reserved, and higher rate of exchange. Under these conditions a decided improvement was discernible in the London market. HEMP—Manila steady, quiet, and J grade October-December quoted £68, and K £58 10/- per ton. New Zealand in fair request, and firmly held. Italian dull of sale. SHELLAC steady, and standard T.N. spot 650/-, and December sold 550/- per cwt. PALM KERNELS flat. RUBBER steadier. WOOL.—LEICESTER, Wednesday.—There is no improvement to report, and business is very slack all round. Wools are nominally the same price as of late, but very few transactions are taking place. Even should values fall the condition of trade is such that there would not be much speculation. Hosiery manufacturers are still on short time, and find it very difficult to get anything like big orders from retailers, who report very small inquiry from the public. Spinners are not busy.
